Mercer County Farmer Is Positive About Dairying

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff
GROVE CITY (Mercer Co.) — John Ligo of Mercer County is excited to be a dairy farmer. He has good reason, too. Last year the Ligos made $1,600 net cash profit per cow on their 230-cow dairy farm.

"Dairy farming has been very, very good for us," said Ligo. "When it has been good for so long, there's bound to be corrections, like the current low milk price."

Ligo and his wife Judy started in the dairy business 10 years ago because John saw dairying as a profitable way to run his own business and stay in agriculture. He hasn't been disappointed yet.

"Ten years ago, we started with nothing and now ten years later we have a net worth of more than a million dollars," said Ligo. "Our net worth has increased because of dairy farming."

According to Ligo, the last four years have included three of the best years ever in dairying. He received an average of $15.31 per hundredweight last year. Producing milk at a cash cost of $10.60 per hundredweight, that's a profit of $4.71 per hundredweight minus depreciation and interest.

He attributes his success as a dairy farmer to having a positive attitude. He also attributes his profitability to having a plan and a goal, then maintaining the commitment, intelligence, and drive to reach that goal.

"Keeping a positive attitude is the most important thing a

PaDHIA & Dairy One Join Forces

STATE COLLEGE-(Centre Co.)-Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association (PaDHIA) and Dairy One have entered into an agreement to create an international service company focused on delivering American style dairy herd management systems around the globe.

According to PaDHIA president Norm Hershey, the international venture will be called AgStar Technologies and be owned 50% by the two organizations.

"Both Pennsylvania DHIA and Dairy One are aware of the enormous opportunities for information services and technology in agriculture's global marketplace," Hershey said. "By joining forces, we can bring the expertise and resources of both organizations together to create an industry-leading service provider around the world."

Knapers Named York Family Of The Year

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. correspondent
YORK (York Co.) — Farmland all around them has disappeared, changing into highways, housing developments, and strip malls. Still the Emerson and Ruth Knaper family has steadfastly continued to devote their land to crops and cows.

For their dedication to keeping the family farm in agriculture, the Knapers have been cited as Farm Family of the Year by the York Chamber of Commerce.

James and Mirian Waltemyer's John Deere equipment dealership in southern York County was named the Ag Business honoree during the Chamber's annual Agribusiness Awards dinner, held January 20

Pork Expo Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday, Feb. 9, the annual Keystone Pork Expo will be conducted at the Lebanon County Expo Center at the Lebanon Fairgrounds in North Cornwall. The program centers on the market outlook for producers and managing risk. For more about the expo, including a schedule of events, turn to page A25.

CLAs In Forages: Potential Milk Marketing Tactic?

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
GUTHRIESVILLE (Chester Co.) — Believe it or not, forages have some rather high levels of substances that could actually fight cancer.

Scientists are working out the details of exactly how a substance called conjugated linoleic acid (CLA), an 18-carbon fatty acid similar to what is found in vegetable oil, according to an article in the January Hay and Forage Grower, can actually prevent certain types of cancers. Meanwhile, it could be possible for grazing groups trying to "niche-market" milk items to put the fact that feeds containing CLAs are used in the production of milk.

"This is a big issue, a big health issue," said Dr. Marvin Hall, Penn State forage specialist, late last week.

Hall spoke to about 60 crop producers and agri-industry representatives at the 2000 Chester County Crops Day at the East Brandywine Fire Hall in Guthriesville.

The more animals are fed forages, the higher amounts of CLA are present to fight cancer. The potential to use this source of information to market "CLA-forage" milk could be enormous.

Hall spoke about developments in forage research and new products on the horizon for producers.

PDA Offers Crop Insurance Assistance To Farmers

A second helping of snow that blew through southeast Pennsylvania on Sunday followed by significant winds left farmers such as George Spahr of East Berlin clearing out driveways all day Monday. George and his family have operated a 235-acre dairy farm for the last 41 years. The farm is owned by the family of George Kennan, who was the ambassador to Russia during the Truman Administration. CATTLE: Compared to Tuesday, slaughter steers and heifers opened .50 higher but faded back to mostly steady by sale's end. Strength was based on the short supply of high quality black steers. The speed of the sale was sluggish, again this week, which hampered trading. A good test of Holstein steers sold fully steady. Slaughter cows were active and mostly steady to .50 higher, while slaughter bulls sold steady to 1.00 higher. Supply included 30 percent slaughter steers and 58 percent slaughter cows.

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers and heifers sold steady to mostly .50 lower with some moderate strength noted late in the week. Winter weather and snow packed roads slowed trading again this week. Market indicators were only slightly higher this week, but the Western cattle market found support as we enter the spot futures trading month with cash cattle at a 2.00 discount. Major feedlot areas sold cattle steady to 1.00 higher with some dressed sales as much as 2.00 higher at 68.00-69.50 and 108.00 to mostly 109.00 dressed. Demand continues good for Holstein steers and local prices ended fully steady. Slaughter cow trading was very active this week, with prices trending .50-1.50 higher. Slaughter bulls sold 1.00-3.00 lower than last week's active snow market. Supply included 31 percent slaughter steers, 5 percent slaughter heifers, 56 percent slaughter cows, 3 percent bulls, with the balance feeders.

Frozen Eggs
ATLANTA, GA.

JANUARY 28, 2000

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS,
JANUARY 28, 2000. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices were generally unchanged to higher on whites, balance of items were unchanged to lower. Demand was mixed for irregular offerings. The undertone was firm on whites, barely steady on whole, and weak on yolks. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending January 22, 2000 were 6 % less than last week, and 1 % less than a year ago. Shell egg supplies were fully adequate for current trade needs.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER
PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity slowed as mid-week approached and expectations for the first of the month were conservative. Offerings of all items were at least adequate. Discounting continued on wings and began to be observed on breast items. Retail and distributive movement was no better than fair. The market tone was weak on wings and breast items and no better than steady for the balance.

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Wheat bids finished on both sides of steady with favorable weather a pressure factor while some overnight export sales offering light strength. Corn and soybean bids were slightly lower on slow foreign demand and some profit taking on the Board due to strong World competition. Wheat 1 cent higher to 1 cent lower. Corn 1 cent lower. Sorghum 2 to 3 cents lower. Soybeans steady to 4 cents lower. Recent wet weather in winter wheat growing areas has the crop looking pretty good. However, some forecasts have predicted a return of dry conditions over the next week. Overnight sales of wheat to South Korea was a plus for bids although tonnage was light. Reports of new CCC donation tenders offered light support. Corn bids were slightly weaker at the close today. Ideas that recent rainfall will increase Argentine's crop this year, weighed on bids. An increase in corn import estimates for Brazil this year, due to drought conditions was supportive to bids. Losses in Brazilian corn crop is reported to be the first corn crop loss there with much of the damage in Rio Grande De Sul. An overnight export sale to Taiwan was announced but sales have been light this week. Continued Chinese competition has kept a thumb on corn bids. Farmer selling slowed. Soybeans lost ground again today, pressured by more rain forecast in Brazil over the next few days. Very slow export interest added weakness to beans.

FEBRUARY 7-13, 2000

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY, FEB. 12.

GREAT PERFORMANCES

February 7 stacks up in history as an auspicious beginning for many stage events. The French dancer Madame Francisquy Hutin first introduced ballet in the United States on February 7, 1827, when she staged "The Deserter" at the Bowery Theater in New York City. Ballet was evidently accepted with grace, but the minimal costumes of the dancers caused a mild stir. More recently, on this day in 1944, Bing Crosby recorded his "Swinging on a Star" for Decca Records. And again on this day, in 1964, the Beatles began their historic first tour in America, arriving to a throng of 25,000 screaming fans at the John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York City.

On with dance, let joy be unconfined . . .

— Mark Twain

TIP OF THE WEEK

APPLE GINGERBREAD

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
3 tablespoons molasses
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup buttermilk
1-1/2 cups peeled, diced apples whipped cream, for topping

Mix flour, spices, and salt, set aside. Cream butter and sugar. Add egg and molasses, beating well. Dissolve soda in buttermilk and add to creamed mixture. Add dry ingredients and apples, mixing well. Bake in a greased and floured 9-inch square cake pan at 350° F for about 50 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Makes 8 servings.

World's Safest Drinking Water

Despite the tremendous surge in the popularity of bottled water—with annual sales of $4.3 billion last year—America's tap water is still the safest in the world. Jon Capacasa writing in EPA Environmental news says President Clinton's pledge that all Americans are entitled to clean, pure water is one promise that has been kept. Nine out of 10 Americans enjoy water from large public water systems that consistently meet the highest quality of health standards.

On December 16, 1999, the U.S. Safe Drinking Water Act is 25 years old. A quarter century after we made safe water a priority, Americans are now getting an added benefit—water companies are required to notify their users—you and me—about the quality of the drinking water that they are providing to us. They also have to let the public know where their water comes from—whether from a lake, river or natural underground source—and how the water is treated to meet health standards.

With all of this safe water available, one irony with this craze for spending extra for bottled water is that 25% of the bottled water sold in the United States is actually repackaged tap water. Many of those little designer bottles of water started life at someone's spigot.

The United States has 54,000 community water systems that provide water for more than 252 million people. One out of five of these systems uses surface water, like lakes or rivers, for its water source. The remainder of the population is served by systems that pump water from underground.

America's drinking water systems are the crown jewel of the environmental protection we enjoy in this country. The municipalities and companies that manage these systems have much to be proud of. They spend $22 billion a year to provide safe water. Their increasingly sophisticated efforts help ensure that we are protected from new chemicals and disease-causing contaminants that barely existed 25 years ago.

In the past 25 years, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has set standards that water suppliers must meet to reduce threats from 90 contaminants like lead, mercury and PCBs. EPA estimates that nearly 75,000 outbreaks and more than a half million cases of widespread disease have been avoided in the past decade. For instance, epidemics of cholera and typhus—once common in cities—have been nearly eliminated in the United States. And exposure of children to lead in drinking water is significantly reduced. Moreover, improvements to our drinking water continue.

Despite America's tremendous accomplishment of safe water, new challenges to drinking water safety will emerge from a growing population, acid rain and urban sprawl. We will encounter new sources of contamination like runoff from factory farms and fertilized lawns. These pressures require that we remain vigilant and keep on protecting our sources of drinking water.

That means cleaning up rivers and streams, preventing pollution from spills and dumping, and learning where our drinking water comes from and how safe it really is.

The new consumer confidence reports issued by water companies are a good beginning. Continuing to earn the public's confidence in the drinking water safety network in this country is a key challenge for the coming years.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County
Agricultural Agent

To Consider Snowmobile Damage to Alfalfa

Most winter activities do not pose much of a threat to agriculture, but the use of snowmobiles may be devastating to alfalfa, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. Riding a snowmobile across the snow will pack the snow down into a very dense cover. This dense cover on alfalfa fields hinders alfalfa from respiration and could result in the loss of alfalfa plants during the following season. Riding a snowmobile across an alfalfa field is a much smoother ride and undoubtedly more fun than riding across a corn field.

While riding your snowmobile consider the potential damage you are causing to the alfalfa and ride only on corn and other crops.

To Look At Horse's First Shoes

The horse's foot continues to increase in size until it is full grown at five or six years of age. According to Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock Agent, if the horse is shod during the growing years, shoes should be reset frequently and progressively larger shoes applied as needed. Ideally, growing horses should be shod only for short periods of time. It would be beneficial for horses to be shod all around during these periods, especially if they are doing any work that would cause the feet to wear down faster than they grow out.

Avoid waiting until the horse is sore to shoe it. Generally, first shoes should be light as well as give the desired protection to the foot. Aluminum shoes are often used. A rocker-toe is most desirable on young horses to ease break over and prevent forging. Forging is a fault of gait when the toe of the hind shoe strikes the bottom of the front shoe. Half round shoes are also used on the front feet to ease break over and prevent limb interference.

To Consider Cold Weather Tips

In extremely cold weather it is very important to keep the head covered and perhaps the face and mouth to prevent heat loss from the body.

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, reminds us that the extremities of the body will cool faster than the rest of the body and must be protected with gloves, boots and ear flaps to prevent frostbite. When you know you will be out in the cold, always overdress.

It is easier to remove unneeded clothing than it is to get warm when extra clothing is not available. Eye protection from glare of the sun can be very important on bright days, especially if the ground is snow covered. Being aware of the affect that the wind has on winter temperatures is very important. Blowing winds will make a cool day feel very cold. Thirty degrees will feel like minus two degrees when the wind is blowing 30 miles per hour. Always have extra clothing in the car while driving during winter. Winter can be fun but a few precautions and some planning will improve your enjoyment of the outdoors.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "It is impossible to learn what you think you already know."

A FATAL MISUNDERSTANDING

February 6, 2000

Background Scripture: Matthew 21:1-17.

Devotional Reading: Luke 19:29-44.

I have walked the traditional way from Bethphage to what was the Temple Mount in Jerusalem. As I have proceeded from the Mount of Olives down into the Kidron Valley and up to Mount Zion, I have pondered just what was and is the meaning of Jesus' Palm Sunday entrance into Jerusalem.

Was this procession really a "triumphal entry," as it is usually depicted? Or is this a moment of cruel mockery? Those of us who have the advantage of knowing what the disciples and the crowd could not have known—that it all would end on a cross—cannot enter comfortably into the spirit of joy that is recorded here. Whether this was an authentic moment of elation or an episode of ludicrous let's-pretend doesn't matter, for the cross of Calvary throws a deadly dark shadow over the path of the Palm Sunday procession.

What did Jesus make of all this? Was he hoping to confront the leaders of Jerusalem with the claims of the kingdom of God, forcing them either to repent and accept the "good news" or make the momentous mistake of setting themselves against it? Was it Jesus' intention to draw a sharp distinction between his own understanding of the messianic role and the erroneous expectations of those whose aims were more secular than spiritual?

Sharp Contrast

We will never know just what was in his heart and mind, but I think that it is obvious that Jesus was attempting to present himself and his mission in sharp contrast to the militant expectations of many of his contemporaries. His instructions to his two disciples appears to be a conscious, well-thought-out approach: "Go into the village opposite you, and immediately you will find an ass tied, and a colt with her; untie them and bring them to me" (21:2). It even appears to me that he had already made arrangements with the owner of the ass and colt. "If anyone says anything to you, you shall say, 'The Lord has need of them,' and he will send them immediately" (21:3).

Matthew sees in his action a fulfillment of Zechariah 9:9, "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Jerusalem! . . . Lo, your king comes to you; triumphant and victorious is he; humble and riding on an ass, on a colt the foal of an ass." (Note: you will find that Mark and Luke have Jesus asking only for one animal, a colt, John calls the beast "a young ass.")

The best explanation of this obvious disagreement between singular and plural mounts, I believe, a simple editing error on the part of the writer of Matthew or a later editor.

I believe it very likely that Jesus himself chose to enter Jerusalem in this manner because of the Zechariah 9:9 passage which is acknowledged to present the "king" as a humble man of peace, not of physical or military power. Up to this point Jesus has been very careful to avoid the identification of 'messiah' because there was a world of difference between his understanding of that role and the expectations of most of the people. It is as if he is saying, if you want to see me as the Messiah, know that it this kind of Messiah that I come.

Most Dangerous Day

I believe Jesus knew full well that this was the most dangerous day of his life. He knew that the messiahship that he offered was not the messiahship that was expected. I do not think that he was carried away by the reactions of the crowds. Crowds are fickle; one moment they want to make you king; another they want to crucify you. Jesus knew that. Perhaps he hoped that, nevertheless, his choice of the role of the humble, peaceful 'king' would yet win them to his message of spiritual rule. Or, perhaps, he knew that nothing would change their minds and he simply proceeded with his entry to hold true to mission. Sometimes we have to do the right thing, even if we know it has little promise of convincing those who oppose our mission. We still have to make the witness so that our faithfulness to it is not in vain.

Whatever Jesus thought and expected, whatever the crowds thought and desired, the Palm Sunday procession was nevertheless a grand misunderstanding. It was not that Jesus had not clearly presented his message, but that the people didn't listen to it because their minds were occupied with their own apocalyptic schemes. Despite his careful plans, they turned this humble procession into a messianic demonstration. They tried to use him for their own expectations.

Both for them and for him, it was a fatal misunderstanding, the same kind of willful misunderstandings that are still all too often our response to the kingdom of God which he proclaims and offers to us today.

Brubaker Elected to Third Term

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Herman Brubaker, a dairy farmer from West Alexandria, Oh., has been reelected as chairman of the board of directors of Dairy Farmers of America (DFA). Brubaker, who has served as board chairman since the Kansas City-based cooperative was founded in January 1998, is now serving his third term. The dairy marketing cooperative is expected to report gross sales exceeding seven billion for 1999.

Election of DFA officers was held during the January meeting of the DFA executive committee and board of directors in Kansas City. Carl Baumann, a dairy farmer from Highland, Ill., was elected to a third term as vice chairman and serves as chair of the Operations/Marketing Committee.

Charles Beckendorf, a dairy farmer from Tomball, Tx., was elected to a third term vice chairman and serves as chair of the Finance Committee. Tom Camerlo, a dairy farmer from Florence, Co., also was elected to a third term as vice chairman and serves as chair of the Public Policy Member and Governmental Relations Committee.

Dairy Farmers of America is a dairy marketing cooperative that markets milk for 22,000 dairy farmer members in 45 states. DFA supplies milk to bottling and manufacturing plants that produce a complete line of dairy products and food components for consumers in the U.S. and around the world.

Penn State Offers Program on Dairy Production Medicine

UNIVERSITY PARK (State College)—Veterinarians can find new techniques and skills to better serve the dairy industry by attending the Dairy Production Medicine Certificate Program, co-sponsored by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine.

"Dairy operations in Pennsylvania and the Northeast are increasing herd size, yet concentrating the animals on fewer farms," says David Wolfgang, Penn state senior research associate in veterinary science. "That means veterinarians should learn new skills to transform their practice from the traditional focus on individual animal care to a more holistic approach that focuses on collective production and performance—a 'herd's-eye' view."

The production medicine course, which starts March 9, 2000, comprises 10 three-day workshops spaced over 2 1/2 years. Practitioners will receive intensive instruction on such topics as dairy nutrition, milk quality and safety, reproductive performance, herd expansion, environmental stewardship and impact of facilities on animal health and welfare.

Wolfgang estimates there are 800 veterinarians in Pennsylvania who include large food animals in some part of their practice. Within that number, there are about 250 veterinarians whose primary practice focuses on food animals.

In addition to intensive classroom instruction, the program uses a single case farm where each participating veterinarian can see methods for dairy production medicine applied in real-world situations.

"The farm will be fairly close to the University Park campus, but it must be large enough to give the class a variety of experiences in production medicine," Wolfgang explains. "Serving as a case farm is a real benefit for the producer, since the farm will have between 20 and 30 consultants working collectively to improve herd health and performance."

The class starting in 2000 will be the fourth class since Penn State started the program in 1991. Wolfgang says the current enrollment includes veterinarians from Maryland, Mississippi, Vermont and Pennsylvania.

A new area of instruction is included in the program, Wolfgang says. Instructors from The Smeal College of Business Administration will educate practitioners to better utilize their new skills, make effective presentations and work with clients.

"The trend nationally is moving to larger dairy farms with bigger herds," Wolfgang says. "Even traditional family farms will have to become more efficient to stay in the game. The Dairy Production Medicine Program will allow vets to help farmers become more efficient by moving away from just fixing broken cows to preventing the breakdown in the first place."

The program is open to 25 participants. Registration deadline is Feb. 1, 2000. For registration and tuition information, contact Brenda Dinges, 115 Henning Building, University Park, Pa. 16802.

POULTRY GUARD

LITTER AMENDMENT

New Poultry Guard™ Litter Amendment is a unique activated clay that delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments

Unlike these other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation. Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance. In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower.

Using Poultry Guard Litter Amendment Is As Simple As...

| A pply
Simply spread over poultry litter.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> No incorporation No moisture activation No complicated instructions for heating and ventilation in conjunction with application | B ird Set
Poultry Guard can be applied when it's most convenient, up to five days before bird set.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> No application timing headaches between clean out and bird set No last minute application after equipment has been lowered | C ontrol Ammonia
Poultry Guard will deliver immediate and long-term ammonia control and give birds a healthier growing environment.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> No more dangerously high levels of ammonia to stunt growth |
|--|---|---|

You be the judge! We are confident this litter amendment will improve your poultry and your profits.

Cheese Stuck at Support
• Cheese prices steady
• No cheese enters CCC
• Sales of dairy products strong!
• February advanced prices out

For all practical purposes, cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange (CME) are sitting on the CCC purchase prices, or support price levels. The CCC purchase price for block cheese is $1.10 per pound and for barrel cheese is $1.07. Since Western cheese prices are normally 2-5 cents per pound cheaper than Central prices, one could argue that cheese is at support. The good news is that cheese has yet to be sold to the government (Commodity Credit Corporation). A buildup of cheese stocks could delay future prices increases.

Cheese prices at the CME were unchanged this week. Block cheese was $1.11 per pound and barrel cheese was $1.09 per pound. Both grades of nonfat dry milk (extra and Grade A) were flat at $1.03 per pound. Butter prices, however rose slightly from $0.8950 per pound on Monday, January 24 to $0.91 per pound on Friday, January 28. The CME milk futures reflected this weakness. As of January 28, futures settlement prices for 2000 were: January: $10.10; February: $9.98; March: $10.30; April: $10.50; May: $11.00; June: $11.56; July: $12.43; August: $12.75; September: $12.85; October: $12.80; November: $12.33; and December: $12.03. The market expects the average Class III price for 2000 to be just $11.55 per cwt. That compares with a BFP of $12.43 in 1999, $14.20 in 1998, and $12.05 in 1997. The Economic Research Service announced commercial disappearance for dairy products for the three months September through November. During this time period milk production grew 4.2 percent. Beginning commercial stocks were up 35.3 percent, but imports were down 4.8 percent. So, total supply was up 8.2 percent. That's a lot. But commercial disappearance during this period was up 6.9 percent (on a butterfat basis). That's very strong! Consumption for specific dairy products were: butter up 18.0 percent; American cheese up 13.7 percent; Other cheese up 7.2 percent; nonfat dry milk down 6.7 percent; and fluid milk products up 0.1 percent. Even though milk production is up, sales have been very good.

According to these numbers, we sold more than we produced on a butterfat basis during this three-month period, resulting in lower stocks by the end of November 1999.

The problem, however, is that these ending stocks were 17.2 percent higher than November 1998. So, despite great sales, the perception in the market is that dairy stocks are building.

USDA announced advanced milk prices for February 2000 (see Tables 3 and 4). These advanced prices are for Class I milk (skim and butterfat) and Class II milk (skim only). The Base Class I milk price (to which a local differential is added) at 3.5 percent butterfat for February 2000 will be 10.71 per cwt.

This compares to the old Class I mover for February 1999 of $17.94. This was the Basic Formula Price (BFP) lagged two months. The Class II Skim Milk Price for February (just part of the Class II price) will be $8.42 per cwt.

USDA has yet to announce the actual class prices or the butterfat, protein farmer can do," said Ligo. "When prices turn down, it's the time to take stock in your business and really stand by your suppliers."

"Low prices can open up opportunities for farmers who stay positive," said Ligo. He pointed out the lower priced cattle and equipment that can be purchased during low price periods. Dairy facilities come up for sale. Good heifers become available.

The Ligos are helping a younger couple get started on a neighboring dairy farm. "If milk was expensive, that farm wouldn't be available," said Ligo.

The Ligos farm more than 1,000 acres in Mercer and Venago counties. They raise all of their own replacements, and they feed a TMR formulated for 75 pounds of milk. They use home-grown forages and high moisture corn, purchasing commodity mixes and custom-mixed minerals.

Since purchasing the original 460-acre farm in 1988 and building a double-10 milking parlor and 212-stall freestall barn in 1990, the Ligos have purchased several more farms.

"We're having a good time dairy farming," said Ligo. "Cash flow has not always been good, but our profitability has been excellent."

According to Ligo, there are several elements in a business that lead to profitability. "Dairying requires a lot of capital, labor, and management, plus it's risky," said Ligo. "Therefore there's profitability there. If it were easy and fun, then everyone would do it."

For Ligo, profitability is extremely important. "It allows you to keep your word," said Ligo. "It allows you to be responsible to yourself, your employees, and your suppliers. It's the lifeblood of your business."

When producing a commodity, Ligo claims it's essential to be a low cost producer. "Everyone gets the same price for their milk," said Ligo. "The only handle you have is to drive your cost of production down."

Ligo recommends that farmers look at their top five expenditures and analyze them closely. He cautions against spending time analyzing expenditures that don't affect the bottom line.

"For example, we buy any semen we want regardless of what it cost because it is not going to benefit the business to cut semen costs in half," said Ligo. "On the other hand, if we can cut the feed bill by five percent, it would save me thousands of dollars."

He also encourages farmers to make sure that a short cash flow doesn't interfere with profitability. "Don't end up doing something costly because you have a cash flow problem," said Ligo. "If you can save a thousand dollars buying seed in February, perhaps you should borrow money to buy it. But don't buy soybeans in bags just because you can't afford a truckload."

For Ligo, a very important point in profitability is maximizing his most limited resource. "Some people don't have enough land, but they think they need to grow oats on it when they should only be growing forages," said Ligo.

cows they have. According to Ligo, the best things that farmer can do is maximize production per cow. If a farmer has limited capital, he shouldn't waste it purchasing expensive equipment. Ligo suggests investing in livestock instead.

To maintain a steady cash flow during the ups and downs of milk prices, Ligo prepares an annual budget so he will know what his expenses will be each year. Then, each month when he pays his bills, he projects his anticipated cash flow over the next several months.

"Profitability is the lifeblood, but business lives and dies by cash flow," said Ligo. "If you can't cash flow, you're done."

"Projecting my cash flow helps me decide whether I have enough money to invest in any

Inside the milking parlor, John reviews the daily milking sheet. The herd averages 75 pounds of milk daily and 200 days in milk. The Ligos don't breed any cows back until they're 180 days in milk to prevent excess stress and increased cull incidences in the herd.

If they can destroy 10% of your corn overnight, think what they'll do with more time.

capital expenses, like another piece of equipment," said Ligo.

Ligo tends not to borrow money on a short-term basis. However, since he has never expected milk prices to be as low as long as they are now, he did apply for a line of credit in November. It's mainly for assurance.

"More than anything, I wanted the line of credit to take advantage of the opportunities that come up during low milk price periods," said Ligo. "I also wanted to assure my employees that we didn't have to worry about what we were going to do when the milk price drops."

Ligo relies heavily on his employees to maintain profitability and production on his dairy farm. Five full-time employees help Ligo on the farm, where they milk three times a day.

Working as a region credit manager for Telemark, Inc., his wife Judy also takes care of the calves on the farm. The Ligos have a 23,800-pound herd average, with 890 pounds of fat and 785 pounds of protein.

Ligo attributes his low somatic cell counts, which average around 150,000, and his success in the milking parlor to

"excellent communications among milkers on different shifts."

The Ligos pre- and post-dip, use individual paper towels, and milk infected cows last. They also keep a permanent record of everything that happens during each shift.

"Every day is another page in the book," said Ligo. "Employees are expected to write down everything that happened during that milking — what time they started, when they finished, and any problems with the cows. Then the person who milks the next shift can review the book and know what happened during the last shift."

The Ligos also employ some non-traditional practices in their dairy that have been successful for them. The first is that they never treat mastitis with antibiotics. Instead they use what Ligo terms as "supportive therapy."

The milkers massage udders, rub liniment on the udders, use oxytocin, hydrate the cows through hypertonic saline solution given intravenously, and give cows aspirin and antihistamines.

Another non-traditional practice that the Ligos employ is extending the cows' lactations to 480 days instead of the traditional 320 days in milk. Cows aren't bred back until at least 180 days in lactation. Ligo does this because he believes it creates less stress for their cows.

"Cull-inducing instances in a cow's life are calving, getting use to being back in the milking string, breeding, and during the dry-off and transition period," said Ligo. "If we can stretch those events over 16 months instead of 12 months, we have less forced-cull instances. Cows don't get sick just milking and eating."

The herd's daily average milk production remains at 75 pounds, and the conception rate is 1.6 services per conception. They use BST per the label instructions, beginning usage at about seven weeks into the lactation.

"A lot of farmers believe that extending the lactation just puts days on at the end of the lactation," said Ligo. "But it doesn't. We always dry cows off two months before freshening. We're extending the days between peak milk and breeding."

By breeding the cows later in lactation, Ligo encounters fewer conception problems. "The cow's past peak production. The uterus is in good shape, and she is under less stress. Therefore the animals breed really well. Heat detection is pretty easy, too, because we have a fair number of cows in heat at one time."

John and Judy returned to farming in 1990. John grew up on a dairy farm and ran his father's dairy for about five years, before taking a job with Meadville Farm Credit.

Since 1990, John has been very active in agriculture on both the local and state level. He is chairman of the county agriculture preservation board and serves on the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program board. He has also been recognized as a Master Farmer in 1998 and as the 1993 Outstanding Young Farmer for Pennsylvania.

Both Judy and John serve on the county ag education board and belong to Ebenezer Presbyterian Church. Judy also serves on both the county ag development board and county extension board. The Ligos are members of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

In addition to their Holsteins, the Ligos own 40 head of Scottish Highlands, from which they sell breeding stock.

"They're for fun mostly," said Ligo, who enjoys dairying both for the pleasure and profit of it.

By-Product Feeds Could Help Trim Dollars From Feeder Costs

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Feeder cattle are becoming more expensive to finish. So producers have few alternatives to rescue the bottom line — other than using alternative, by-product feeds to survive in a volatile grain market, according to several industry experts here Tuesday.

The feeder-to-fed price "may be the widest in history," said Dr. Harold Harpster, Penn State ruminant nutrition specialist. "It will take all your management savvy . . . to make a profit. We'll have to be pretty creative in getting cost of gain down."

Harpster spoke at the Penn State-sponsored Lancaster Cattle Feeder's Day.

An alternative to grains are food by-products available from food processors. They include cookie meal, bread, potato chips, pretzels, and other items.

Harpster spoke about one Penn State study that analyzed the feed efficiency of cookie meal from Griffin Industries. The cookie meal measures two points higher in protein and has triple the fat of conventional corn.

The study examined the use of 60 percent cookie meal, at $90 per ton, on crossbred steer yearlings fed in a 112-day period. The cookie meal was more efficient than corn over a cumulative period in terms of feed per pound of gain. However, in the last 20 days of the feeding cycle, "feed efficiency took a dive," said Harpster.

In Pennsylvania, producers feed cattle to higher degrees of finish and higher weights, according to Harpster. Compared to the Midwest, regional feeders tend to place 100 pounds more on the final weight at slaughter and put the cattle on 20 days longer than others in the U.S.

To remain competition, area producers should look more at the genetics of the cattle they are buying. Producers may be "encouraged, if not forced, to sell on value in the future," said Harpster. Already finishing operations can be subject to "tremendous discounts for cattle not falling into correct market category, having a lack of quality or cutability," he said.

In the past, per animal, the margin from feeder price to finish was a positive amount per head. These days the reverse is true — which puts increasing demands on the skills of a feedlot manager.

Feeders are doing better on managing the cost of gain, a real critical issue for the next couple of years, noted the Penn State specialist.

The key is to measure the benefits of putting more gain on, with feed efficiency dropping, when the animal begins to grade beyond Low Choice. At 150 pounds over Low Choice, producers need 12 percent more feed per pound of gain. At 1,250 pounds, feeders need 20 percent more feed per pound of gain. At 1,350 pounds, 30 percent more feed per pound of gain is required.

The way to success, noted Harpster, is "buy low, feed cheap, and sell high." And that's tough to do in an era of high calf prices, low slaughter prices, high feed prices, and high operating costs.

New technologies are coming on all the time to help producers market good stock. Harpster noted that ultrasound measuring of calves, providing a picture of the entire interior of the animal, is not far from reality.

Pennsylvania feeds more cattle than any state in the East, having more than 150,000 fed cattle on lots. There are two major beef processors the area, the Penn State nutrition specialist noted, with cash cattle sales in Pennsylvania alone at $360 million.

Jim Hogue, feedlot specialist and nutritional consultant with Agri-Basics, Inc., Manheim, reviewed the strengths and weaknesses facing feedlot owners and operators.

Foremost, though, feedlot managers "have to get out of the paradigms that (say) you have to own the cattle or you can't get any money out of them," said

Hogue. Producers, however, struggle with the realities of the high price of feed, worries about future prices, but "it's better than milking cows," he said.

Hogue noted that the area is an excellent source for quality feeder cattle with premium cattle markets and large packers located near metropolitan areas. The area has excellent crop yields with some of the most productive cropland in the U.S., has good facilities and stable, predictable climate, and there are many sources of less expensive, alternative feeds.

The downfalls: Pennsylvania is a corn deficit state, using more grain than it can produce, and relying heavily on grain imports; fewer packers, which could mean a lack of good competition; high overhead and low unemployment, which means higher wages and operating expenses; tighter and costly environmental regulations; and the ever-present risk.

The Certified Angus Beef (CAB) program, a subsidiary of the American Angus Association, has experienced rapid, dynamic growth since it was established 22 years ago, noted Bryce Schumann, assistant director, CAB Program feeder-packer relations, at the cattle feeder's day.

Schumann said in 1999 the brand program marketed 493 million pounds of certified Angus meat, and hopes to eclipse half a billion pounds this year.

The value-added beef production program, operated as a non-profit entity of the American Angus Association, has several goals. Through the licensing program, feedlot operators can not only get some superior field genetics, but a database can track what genetics work best from field to plate.

The CAB Program owns no cattle. They merely provide a licensing and database effort, which provides a logo and other marketing tools, for a small cost, to producers who sign up. Any size producer can sign up for the program, not just large feedlot operators.

New director of certification programs for the Blueprint for Success from Penn State is Wendall Landis, right. John Comerford, Penn State beef specialist, welcomes Landis to the new position at the Cattle Feeder's Day.

The key: market hide color that has a minimum of 51 percent solid black fed steers and heifers.

The specifications: carcass upper 2/3 choice, Modest 00 or higher degree of marbling (medium to fine marbling), and an "A" grade in color, texture, and firmness.

The licensing allows more accurate identification of quality of the meat. Those who sign up for the program must pass quality assurance and other specifications to meet the program requirements.

Eighty percent of the packer base is licensed to produce CAB. In 1999, 1.9 million cattle were CAB licensed. By 2004, the program hopes to have 4.73 million cattle in the program, Schumann noted.

In 1999, the program assistant director noted that 44 percent, or 9.5 million head, of cattle were Angus or Angus-type cattle. In 2000, 2.1 million head will be CAB certified.

The program hopes to facilitate the sharing of information to make feedlots with CAB profitable. "If it's not economical, not many people are going to do it," Schumann said.

Cost for the license: 50 cents per head, which include tag costs, carcass data, and access to the CAB database. At 25 cents per head, the cattle can still be marketed CAB but no other CAB programs are available.

The program seeks to further refine what has already been an accepted and successful "integrated information system" to make feedlots more profitable, according to Schumann.

The program can be fitted for the small packer. Schumann said there are a lot of opportunities "for the small packer if they work together with others to get units in terms of sale."

For 2000, the cattle market production was predicted by the USDA to decrease 4 percent in terms of total number of pounds of meat marketed. However, according to H. Louise Moore, Penn State economist, the real number will be down about two percent.

Moore provided his cattle forecast at the cattle feeder's day.

In 2000, 28 billion pounds of cattle meat will be marketed. In 1999, the amount actually marketed, though it was projected to decrease from 1998, was actually up about 2.5 percent.

About 20 billion pounds of hogs are expected to be marketed, down 4 percent; as for broilers, they lead the meat market, at 31.9 billion pounds projected in 2000, up seven percent.

Total meat expected to be marketed is 80.9 billion pounds, before exports.

Moore noted that the U.S. has just experienced its longest growth ever in peacetime, a 10-year period. Unemployment is the lowest it can be, consumers are confident in the future, and, despite some recent fuel shortages which will impact agriculture, in general the economy is doing really well, he said.

Though many producers want the government out of agriculture, 39 percent of the national U.S. net farm income is from government subsidies.

The real worries: a continuing downturn in the Russian markets, which are not doing as well as expected, according to Moore. The U.S. has stopped shipping broiler parts to Russia simply because Russia can't afford to pay.

Another worry is the overvalued stock market. Sooner or later, there will be an "adjustment" to stock prices to bring us closer to reality, noted the Penn State economist.

Some financial advisers predict that a recession, to adjust for the overvalued market, has to take place some time.

J. Paul Slayton, new executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, spoke about the work of the council as the "clearinghouse for your checkoff dollars."

Carrie Bomgardner, promotions director for the council, provided information on the "meat case of the future," which includes special food preparation labels and instructions for the consumer. Also, a new barbecue beef, from the freezer, pre-cooked for the consumer, was presented at the cattle feeder's day.

Farmer Boy Ag Systems

Invites You To Join Us At The

Keystone Pork Exposition

Wednesday, February 9th at the Lebanon Expo Center

Farmer Boy Ag Systems is a proud ally of today's modern farmers raising hogs in cost-effective confinement facilities. Our turn-key contracting services means substantial cost and labor reduction, enabling you and your employees to stay on top of your schedules.

We've earned a solid reputation for building through tough weather and site conditions, and following blueprints painstakingly to erect a structurally superior, functional, attractive building.

We ask you to measure us by our results. A tour of recently constructed buildings will clearly demonstrate our quality and craftsmanship. Each Farmer Boy Ag System facility reveals our utilization of products that promote longevity, such as pressure treated lumber products. They show our environmentally safe lagoons, which exceed the standards of the industry. We over-engineer our buildings to further ensure that they meet and surpass your expectations of long-lasting durability.

We realize that your reputation is on the line with every animal you finish, every product you deliver. So is ours. That's why our highest purpose is to establish an alliance with you for our mutual growth and success. And that is why you can count on our field service personnel 24 hours a day, seven days a week to handle any assignment and resolve problems that are a reality in every industry.

Lancaster Dairy Days Set For Feb. 15 and 29

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)-Lancaster County Dairy Days will be held Tuesday, February 15 and 29 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

The first day will focus primarily on:

- Improving Dairy Profits,
- Understanding How Milk is Priced Under the New Federal Order System,
- Dairy Outlook, Robotic Milk-ers,
- The Use of Infrared Photography to Help Determine Where to Drill for Water.

Speakers the first day include Bradley Hilty, Dairy Management and Business Consultant; Dr. Ken Bailey, Penn State Milk Marketing and Dairy Policy Specialist; Brian Reed, Agricultural Veterinary Associates of Denver; and Leon Ressler, Lancaster County Extension Agent.

The second day of Lancaster County Dairy Days will be held Tuesday, February 29 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

The program will focus primarily on:

- Heifer Raising Ideas,
- Accelerated Growth Programs for Heifers,
- Heifer Contracting,
- Housing for heifers and Transition Cows.

Speakers include: Charles Gardner, Keystone Agway; Bill Smith, New Bolton Center of Veterinary Medicine, and Dan McFarland, Extension Agricultural Engineer for South-Central Penna.

In addition to hearing the above presentations, there is also the opportunity to visit with more than 20 commercial exhibitors, beginning at 9:00 a.m. The program starts at 9:45 a.m. Lunch is available and tickets can be purchased before 10:30 a.m.

QUICK-START

The Pax QUICK-START™ pan feeding system grows chicks into FINISHED broilers efficiently.

Start chicks with the feeder resting on the floor and the feed pan entirely filled. The Pax QUICK-START™ pan provides easy access to plenty of fresh feed - with no accumulation of stale feed in the drop tube - attracting even the smallest chicks to begin feeding right away.

Feed Storage and Delivery Systems

Flexible Auger for Low Volume, Standard Volume, High Volume, as well as High Moisture (up to 25%) and pellet applications

ON THE FLOOR
With the feeder resting on the floor the feed level tube is raised to present feed in the entire pan without over filling like other typical flood feeders.

WINCHED
When the feeder is winched the feed level tube automatically lowers to your pre selected finishing level.

Pork Expo Producers Program Centers On Market Outlook, Managing Risk

ANDY ANDREWS

Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Pork may be the meat of choice worldwide — about 42 percent of all meat consumed is pork, with China and Japan the number-one consumers.

At a swine educators meeting conducted in Des Moines, Iowa, last September, Ken Kephart, Penn State swine specialist, pointed out some joys and downfalls of packers and processors.

For more news about the industry, regional pork producers are invited to the 22nd annual Keystone Pork Expo Wednesday, Feb. 9, at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center on the Lebanon Fairgrounds in North Cornwall.

This year's meeting will feature a trade show with more than 35 exhibits and educational seminars for producers. As in the past, the Expo will sponsor a "Pork Bowl" for competing 4-H and FFA members throughout the state.

Steve Meyer, director of economics programs for the National Pork Producers Council, will be providing advice on controlling risk in swine enterprises.

Laura Cheney, assistant professor of agricultural economics at Michigan State University, will discuss marketing and production contracts.

Both speakers are known nationally for their expertise and programs.

Robert Mikesell, senior extension associate, and Leon Ressler, Lancaster County extension agent, will update the audience on results from an odor-reduction field research project conducted on several swine operations throughout Pennsylvania.

Lou Moore, ag economics specialist at Penn State, will provide his hog market outlook.

A Legislative Activity Fund Auction is scheduled in the Central Hall, with a live auction conducted by Col. Harry Bachman at 10:30 a.m. Silent bidding closes at 1 p.m.

Programs are available in most county extension offices.

At the meeting in Des Moines, it was pointed out that shortage of packing plant capacity will continue to be a problem. In 1998, the U.S. slaughtered about 100 million head of swine.

The swine industry reflects the changing face of agriculture, with more vertical integration, similar to poultry producers. Total hogs on finishing contracts in 1997 amounted to 44 percent. Total hogs farrowed under contracts in 1997 was about 17 percent.

Types and percentage use of finishing contracts were payment made for pig space (equivalent to a building lease), 32 percent; payment per head, 53 percent; and payment per pound, 10 percent.

In 1997, 10 percent of the hogs were owned by packing plants. In 1999, 25 percent of the hogs were owned by packers.

Percent of operations using

AI: 47 percent.

The largest hog producer in the U.S.: Smithfield.

Although profits are down, and expected to be tight for years to come, according to experts, the industry is producing twice as much pork today as it did in the 1960s.

The elasticity of demand should also be noted. Today a small change in supply creates a large shift in prices. In 1978-1979, a 15.6 percent increase in supply resulted in a 23.7 percent decrease in prices. In 1997-1998, a 10.1 percent increase in supply resulted in a 39.7 percent decrease in prices.

at the York Expo Center.

In his acceptance of the family farm award, Emerson Knaper credited strong religious beliefs with giving them encouragement and strength to persist as stewards of the land. The Knaper farm, located near Dallastown, was acquired in 1850 by Emerson's great-grandfather, Henry Knaper, an immigrant from Germany, and has remained in Knaper ownership by descending generations.

Emerson Knaper was born and raised on the family homestead. He began helping on the farm when he was just a boy. He and Ruth, a farmer's daughter from Red Lion, married in 1944. The first few years of their marriage was spent on the original family farm, until 1949, when they purchased a farm from his father. That remained their home until 1978, when they added a new house that overlooks the original property.

Nina Knaper-Grove, their daughter, her husband Les, and sons Jamie and Travis Reid now own the Knaper farm. It is cropped to hay and pasture and supports a herd of beef cattle. The Reid twins have been active in the county's 4-H programs and livestock exhibiting. A second daughter, Susan Dutrey, and her family operate a farm in Clark County.

Ag industry awards winners Jim and Miriam "Mim" Waltemyer farmed grain and potatoes for several years before opening their own John Deere equipment dealership in 1986. However, they evolved into the equipment side of agriculture much earlier, in the mid 1970s, when they began doing repairs for farm neighbors in their own farm shop.

"If you're honest with everyone, you don't have to remember what you said," Mim Waltemyer said as she summed up the business philosophy by which they have always operated. The couple, married for 42 years, still work together every day operating the equipment business and continuing to farm 100 acres of crops.

The Waltemyers also board about 20 horses and enjoy riding, though the dealership and farm keep them too busy most of the time to saddle up their own mounts.

A special award went to Alan and Denise Taylor, Delta, for Alan's outstanding representation of York County and Pennsylvania in the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual discussion meet speaking competition. Alan was selected earlier to represent Pennsylvania at the Federation's recent meeting in Texas.

The son of Donnell and Peggy Taylor, Alan and his three brothers are still involved in the family's 130-cow dairy operation. Alan acknowledged that growing up in a family of four sons gave him some early practice in holding his own during dinner-table discussion meets.

The Century Farm of Daniel and Thelma Baugher, Brodbeck, was recognized as the county's latest addition to the prestigious listing of farms that have remained in a family for at least 100 years. Sponsor of the Century Farm recognition is the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, which designed the program to acknowledge the importance of longevity of farm ownership and the state's rural traditions.

Six ag operations in the southern part of the county were saluted for serving as Farm Visitation Day Hosts. The Chamber's annual Farm Visitation is always held on the Sunday prior to Thanksgiving, when participating farms open their door to the public for this educational event.

Farm Visitation Day participants for 1999 were the American Seed Company, owned by Mike and Wanda Rishel, Troubled Acres Goat Farm, Thomas and Rosemary Sprenkle, Twin Pines Farm, Robert and Jeanine Ilyes, Swamp Fox Farms, Joseph "Brud" and Laura McCabe, the Utz Family Farm of Brian and Donna Utz, and Glatfelter's Tree Farm, P. H. Glatfelter Company.

Recognition was extended to three teams of farm-agribusiness representatives who exchanged a day of work with one another. The exchange teams were Greg Whitecomb's of Whitecomb's Produce and 196th District Representative Todd Platts; Joyce Bupp, Bupp Lynn Farms, who traded a day of work with Kent Ketterman, Peoples' Bank/Codorus Valley Corporation; and Bill Buser, Buser Farms, who shared work days with Larry Hicks, columnist for THE YORK DISPATCH.

Speaker for the Chamber's ag-salute was Tony Schiano, president and chief executive officer of Giant Food Stores, Inc., headquartered in Carlisle. Giant Food Stores, Inc., headquartered in Carlisle. Giant Foods is owned by Ahold USA, a world food conglomerate, and operates 150 stores in six middle-Atlantic states with $3.5 billion in retail sales annually.

Schiano noted that, though Ahold operates around the globe, the philosophy is to recognize local marketing and focus on local interests, while enjoying the purchasing and distribution synergies of large scale economics.

(Turn to Page A28)

Emerson and Ruth Knaper, front, were honored by the York Chamber of Commerce as the Family Farm of the Year. With the Knapers are children Susan Dutrey, Les Grove, and Nina Grove.

Alan Taylor, with his wife, Denise, is the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau discussion meet winner, and recently represented the state at national competition in Texas.

Tom Brant, director of the York County Parks, and Ellie Shoemaker, volunteer, were honored during the Chamber of Commerce awards presentations for their efforts to restore into operation the historic Cross Mill.

Jim and Miriam "Mim" Waltemyer received the York Chamber of Commerce's recognition as Agribusiness of the Year for the John Deere equipment dealership.

- 2) Be the lowest cost producer. Everyone gets the same price for their milk. The only handle you have is to keep cost down.
- 3) Analyze your top five expenditures. Only focus on the costs that will really impact your bottom line, like feed. Then cut those cost.

4) Don't let a short cash flow interfere with profitability. If you can save money purchasing send in February, consider a line of credit to do it. Don't cut corners now that will cost you later.

5) Maximize your most limited resource. If your barn is full, maximize production. If your capital is limited, spend it on cows instead of equipment. Every farmer has a different resource that is most limited. It's up to you to maximize it.

Feedlot QA: Blueprint

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A new Penn State College of Agriculture Extension assistant position has been created to begin the groundwork of a feedlot quality assurance program called "Blueprint For Success For Feeding Cattle In Pennsylvania."

The program will be conducted with help from Wendall Landis, who works as a beef nutritional consultant for Agri-Basics, Elizabethtown. Landis begins his work with the blueprint program Feb. 21, according to John Comerford, Penn State beef specialist, Tuesday at the Lancaster Cattle Feeder's Day at the Farm and Home Center.

Landis, a 1999 graduate of Penn State with a degree in dairy and animal science, will be talking to cattle feeders about the program. He will see just how many quality assurance programs are being undertaken and in what ways at various feedlots throughout Pennsylvania.

Landis will work out of the Pennsylvania Beef Council office in Middletown.

The 10-point benchmark for quality cattle includes:

1. Carcasses with a USDA quality grade of Choice or better to reach and exceed consumers' "window of acceptability."

2. A carcass weight of 700-900 pounds to help ensure tenderness, quality factors, and portion sizes acceptable to consumers.

3. A yield grade of 1, 2, or 3 to reduce fat, make beef more visually attractive, and influence tenderness and consistency.

4. No distinguishing dairy or Brahman characteristics. Identify breed and feeding systems for premium programs that address eating quality, value, safety, and nutrition.

5. Fed high energy feeds for at least 120 days to meet consumer demands for uniformity and flavor.

6. Healthy cattle that produce safe and desirable beef.

7. Free of carcass blemishes that may detract from consumer value and ensure appropriate animal husbandry practices.

8. Less than 20-24 months of age at slaughter to positively influence tenderness and high consumer demand.

9. High growth rate with desirable feed conversion to make more efficient use of feed, water, land resources, and reduce production of animal wastes.

10. Produced in environmentally friendly conditions that target excellent animal welfare and positive community relations.

The position is one of extension to study the impact that quality assurance programs can have on profitability.

"Cleanliness and freshness are our two major focuses," Schiano noted, with local fresh food perishables handled through the corporation's 362,000-square foot warehouse in Carlisle.

Trends that Schiano predicts will continue to heavily influence the retail food business include low inflation and unemployment rates, with food costs only rising two percent last year. Retailers will continue to strive to meet needs of the changing population as families spend less time together, the consumer base ages, and people spend more time working than in the past. Already an estimated half of the food dollar is spent eating outside the home.

With its emphasis on fresh produce, Schiano reviewed the Giant Stores' "Walter" campaign promoting fresh fruits and vegetables and emphasized that perishables is the cornerstone of the market place. Giant also participates in the "Simple Delicious" program in Pennsylvania, which utilizes the products of some 325 local growers across the state to supply retailers with locally-grown produce.

Growth of technology will continue to demand inconvenience and service. Internet purchases are expected to swell with an estimated seven people per second logging on for the first time.

Nutrition interest continues to grow, while at the same time consumption of fat is up 11 percent and sugar is up 20 percent. Schiano further predicted the food safety will continue to improve.

to the $60 million the state will use to provide disaster relief to farmers suffering from the 1999 drought.

The reason the state has allocated the money for crop insurance is because the federal crop disaster program requires farmers who did not have crop insurance in 1999 to purchase crop insurance for 2000 and 2001 before receiving federal drought assistance.

"There are two reasons for the crop insurance assistance program," said Russell Redding, deputy secretary of market development for PDA. "The first is to assist those who have had crop losses to meet federal guidelines. The second is to encourage participation in crop insurance to mitigate future crop losses."

Anyone who is eligible for crop loss payments is also eligible to receive assistance in purchasing crop insurance. The crop insurance assistance payment will cover up to 10 percent of the cost of the gross premium for crop insurance, plus the total amount of related fees.

If there are not sufficient funds available to provide 10 percent of the insurance premiums for all farmers who apply, the department will prorate the available funds among the eligible producers. Farmers must apply for federal crop disaster assistance before being eligible to receive the crop insurance assistance.

"The most important thing is just encouraging farmers to get in and sign up," said Redding. "As of Monday, we processed 544 applications for crop loss payment. But there are a lot more applications in the pipeline. And it's only a fraction of those who are eligible to apply."

To receive both the crop disaster relief and crop insurance assistance, farmers must apply at their county farm service agency office in person.

The deadline to apply for the federal crop disaster assistance is February 25, 2000. The insurance assistance remains available to farmers until the 2000 crop year sign-up closes, which is March 15 for most crops.

Farmers can complete the federal disaster relief application and the one-page crop insurance assistance application in one visit to the farm service office.

"It's important to note that, while applications for assistance are satisfied at the farm service agency, the farmers still need to contact their crop insurance agent to get the crop insurance," said Redding.

The phone number for the county farm service agency can be found in the blue pages of the local phone book. Phone numbers for the county offices are also listed on the department's website, www.pda.state.pa.us.

Dairy Extension Meetings Have Been Scheduled

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.)-Bradford, Tioga, & Sullivan County dairy farmers along with agriculture related industry personnel are invited to attend the following educational meetings and activities scheduled for February and March 2000.

February 17, 2000-7:30 a.m.
-Ag Business Breakfast, Bee-man's Restaurant, Sayre, PA

All Agriculture Industry Representatives are invited to attend this Ag Business Breakfast to learn more about the major changes that have taken place in the pricing of milk. Federal Order Reform has dictated that milk pricing beginning January 1, 2000 will no longer be based on a basic formula price and has been changed to a new milk component pricing system.

How does this change affect your dairy farmer customer? Also, what is the dairy outlook for the next several months? William Hill from Dairy Farmers of America's, Syracuse New York Headquarters along with Robert Thomson, Board Director of DFA will be our featured speakers.

February 17, 2000-1:00 p.m.
-"Milk Pricing in 2000", Towanda Extension Office

All Bradford/Sullivan and Tioga County Dairy Farmers are invited to attend this important update on milk pricing. William Hill from Dairy Farmer's of America's Headquarters in Syracuse New York, along with Robert Thomson Board Director of DFA will be on hand to discuss changes that have occurred with Federal Market Order Reform. Join us to learn more about how these changes will affect "Your Milk Check."

February 21, 2000-Bradford County Dairy Day, S.R.U. Middle School, 10:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

Don't miss this year's Dairy Day. It's a day long educational event, trade show and an informal exchange of ideas for all in attendance.

February 29, 2000-"Is Expansion Right for Me"-9:00 a.m., Edgewood Restaurant, Troy, PA

If you have been asking yourself the question, "Is Expansion of My Dairy Business Right for Me?" This meeting is a must attend event. Industry speakers along with dairy farmer's who have already learned about the many rewards and pitfalls of expansion will be presenting useful information to help answer your questions. Reservations are required. Call the Bradford, Sullivan or Tioga County Extension Office for details.

March 8, 2000-"Mounting a Successful Breeding Program" 9:30 a.m.-4:00 p.m.

This workshop is designed to provide Dairy Producers and their employees with information to improve herd reproduction performance, provide tools to analyze herd reproductive status and trouble shoot problems and discuss strategies on a systematic approval to reproductive management. Register by contacting the Bradford, Sullivan or Tioga County extension offices. Dr. Michael O'Connor and Dr. David Griswold, Penn State University will be our instructors. Cost is $20.00 and will cover all breaks, meals and reference materials.

Pennsylvania Restructures Johnes' Disease Management Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)-The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, Penn State University and the University of Pennsylvania College of Veterinary Medicine, is in the process of restructuring its Johnes' program.

The new program is a composite of three separate, mutually supporting programs, one of which is termed the Johnes' Disease Management Program. This program is described below and is intended for herds that are known to be infected with Johnes' disease. Although the herd owner and the herd veterinarian are the most important players, significant technical support is available from the above agencies.

The Management Program is intended to be a flexible approach to management of a herd that is infected with Johnes' disease. The level and intensity of management should be based on the herd owner's needs, economic factors, and ultimate objective which is control. The procedures to achieve this will be established in a cooperative agreement, and a herd plan containing specific management procedures will be developed for that particular herd. A "generic" herd plan will be provided to serve as a basic framework for developing the individualized plan. The management program has two basic levels of participation:

Participation Stage-Herd owner meets with veterinarian to review goals, review management/ husbandry, and develop a herd plan that incorporates certain best management practices (BMP's). The herd plan will be implemented, and progress shall be evaluated at least annually by the herd veterinarian. The department may evaluate progress separately or in conjunction with the herd veterinarian. Testing for Johnes' disease is not required.

Control Stage-Incorporates the above requirements with a testing program and a commitment to manage test positive animals.

Enrollment in the management program will entitle the herd owner for reduced-fee laboratory testing at the Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory. Also, testing under the "30 Free" Test Program can be used to defray test expenses. For additional information, please contact the department at (717) 783-5306.

Elsie the Borden Cow Gets Her Own Web Site

KANSAS CITY, Mo.-Elsie the cow has come out of the barnyard and onto the Internet with her own Internet site: www.elsie.com.

The famous cow, recently marked 60 years in the spotlight with a New York City birthday bash. Now Elsie's gone electronic, adding yet another medium to spread the word about the wholesome goodness of Borden cheese products.

"We've been extremely pleased with the interest in Elsie's site," says Borden Cheese assistant product manager Julie Carlisle, who headed the site development team. "The site opened to visitors early in December, and we've already had several thousand hits. In January, www.elsie.com was listed as the top site on Yahoo's 'daily picks.'"

Borden Cheese President Dick Ballard, says Elsie's web site is part of American Dairy Brand's effort to give the farmer-owned Borden Cheese brand a high level of consumer visibility by using another level of media to reach consumers. "This is our first venture into providing product information via the Internet," said Ballard. "We expect to continue to add new features to make the site useful and fun for consumers who visit to www.elsie.com."

Visitors to Elsie's colorful site are treated to a history of Elsie's life, from her movie appearances to her work promoting savings bonds during World War II, and her travels across the U.S. as a popular ambassador of good will for Borden dairy products.

In addition to Elsie's life story, the site features information about Borden cheese products and a collection of Elsie's favorite Borden cheese recipes. Click on "Elsie's Kitchen" for tasty, nutritious recipes from Barbeque Chicken Pizza to Southwest Taco Pie and Easy Lasagna. There's even a mouth-watering picture illustrating the finished product.

First introduced live at the 1939 World's Fair in New York, Elsie remains one of the most enduring and famous product icons of all time. Recognized by 9 out of 10 people, she was named by Advertising Age as one of the top 10 icons of the 20th century. Elsie has been synonymous with quality dairy products that families can trust, to deliver wholesome nutrition, great taste and freshness.

For the past 60 years, Borden has been home to Elsie. Through a 1997 licensing agreement with Borden and BDH Two, Inc., Dairy Farmers of America (DFA), a farmer-owned dairy marketing cooperative, acquired the rights to use the Borden and Elsie trademarks. Today's Elsie promotes cheese products under the Borden brand for American Dairy Brands, a division of DFA.

York County Dairymen Have Second Chance

YORK (York Co.)-Recent federal legislation provide county dairymen with a second opportunity to receive compensation for a decline in the Basic Formula Price under the Federal Milk Marketing Order System. Entitled the "Dairy Market Loss Assistance Program" (DMLA-II) the program operates off the concept of an earlier version when payments were issued in June 1999.

According to Henry Tyson, regular member of the York County FSA Committee "Only dairymen who did not previously apply under the initial DMLA program can apply during the sign-up period of January 24, 2000 through February 28, 2000.

Milk producers who did not receive a payment under the initial DMLA will receive a payment at the initial DMLA payment rate. A national payment rate for all producers under both DMLA I & II will be issued after the sign-up ends."

Eligible operations are those that marketed milk anytime in 1997 or 1998 or were new in calendar year 1999 and not affiliated with other eligible producers.

Applications may be submitted in person, by facsimile or mail. For information or to request an application, contact the York County FSA Office located at 120 Pleasant Acres Rd. in York. Phone 755-2966 x-2.

Keith Whittaker, President of Dairy One explained that there has been a substantial amount of consolidation and joint venturing occurring within agriculture in recent years. "We are seeing agricultural organizations come together to create efficiencies and better serve their members and customers, as well as examine new opportunities," he said. "Our businesses both operate predominantly in the eastern portion of the country and have many common activities - such as field services, laboratories, administration, sample transportation, and data services. It certainly makes sense from all standpoints to explore how these functions can be done better and more cost-effectively to serve dairy producers of the region."

At a joint meeting in mid-January, the Boards of Directors of both organizations approved the new venture and elected four directors from each organization to serve on the AgStar Technologies Board.

Elected to the Board representing PA DHIA were Norman Hershey of Gordonville, PA, William Ite of Loretto, PA, Dale Hoover of Lebanon, PA, and Adam Derr of Dawson, PA. Dairy One elected Keith Whittaker of Whitney Point, NY, Peter Jacquier of East Canaan, CT, Clyde Rutherford of Otego, NY, and William Cook of Aurora,

PA DHIA AND DAIRY ONE CREATE NEW JOINT VENTURE

NY to serve on the Board.

As its first order of business, the AgStar Technologies Board elected Norman Hershey as President, Clyde Rutherford as Vice President, and Dale Hoover as Secretary/Treasurer.

Dave Slusser, General Manager of PA DHIA, will head day to day operations of the venture.

"We are very excited about the opportunities before us - both internationally and in our own backyards," said Slusser. "PA DHIA is excited to have Dairy

One as a partner to venture into the global marketplace. Together, we can make a major impact in providing information technology and farm management services around the world."

PA DHIA is headquartered in State College, PA and currently provides herd management, milk analysis, and records processing services to more than 3,200 agribusiness owners. Headquartered in Ithaca, NY, Dairy One serves more than 3,500 agribusiness owners, providing herd management, milk analysis, and forage analysis services.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

National Dairy Shrine Boosts Scholarship Funding

COLUMBUS, Oh.-National Dairy Shrine, the "Hall of Fame" of the dairy industry, has approved scholarships and awards totalling over $30,000 for 2000. This is twice the amount distributed in 1999, according to Dr. Thomas Aitchison, President of the organization. The organization increased the funding to recognize and reward outstanding young people in the dairy industry.

These include:

- NDS/DMI Milk Marketing Scholarships-five to seven scholarships awarded annually (One at $1,000; balance $500 scholarships) for college students interested in careers in milk marketing.
- McCullough Scholarships-two scholarships ($2,500 and $1,000) for high school seniors planning to enter a four-year college or university.

• Kildee Scholarships-up to two $3,000 scholarships awarded annually for advanced study in dairy to one of the top individuals in the National Intercollegiate Dairy Judging Contest.

• Student Recognition Contest-cash awards to encourage graduating college seniors to work with dairy cattle after graduation. Must be nominated by college or university.

• Progressive Dairy Producer Award-three $2,000 educational travel awards targeting outstanding young dairy producers 21-45 years of age.

Deadline for applications for all awards and scholarships is March 15, 2000.

For additional information or an application, contact the Dairy Shrine at 614-878-5333 or visit their website at www.dairyshrine.org.

Milking School Scheduled

BELLEFONTE (Centre Co.)—Penn State Cooperative Extension is conducting a two-day Milking School in Centre County. The school will provide instruction for the most important job on the dairy farm—milking cows. All men and women responsible for milking cows should participate.

Topics to be covered include the following: proper milking procedures; pre- and post-dipping; mastitis prevention and treatment; screening tests; milking equipment; and milk quality. The speakers will include extension agents, veterinarians, and milking equipment representatives. The group will spend a half-day at a farm for hands-on demonstrations and discussions.

The school will be held at the Walker Township Building (six miles north of Pleasant Gap on Route 64), on Wednesday, February 16, and Thursday, February 17, from 10:00 a.m.—3:00 p.m.

The cost of the school is $20.00 per person, payable to Extension Special Fund, and phone Centre County Cooperative Extension at (814) 355-4897 or Clinton County Cooperative Extension at (570) 726-0022 by Monday, February 14, or send your check to: Centre County Cooperative Extension Attention: Milking School Willowbank Building, Room 322 420 Holmes Avenue Bellefonte, PA 16823-1488

Success with Non-Traditional Employees

The agriculture industry has learned to deal successfully with a lot of changes in technology, finances, and marketing. But, we have given far less attention to human resource changes. With the unemployment rate in Pennsylvania at 4.2 percent and Lancaster County's unemployment rate at 2.5 percent, farmers are faced with seeking non-traditional employees in non-traditional ways.

Bernie Erven, a professor of Agriculture Economics and extension specialist on human resources at Ohio State University, recommends that we first pay attention to the basics for human resource success. Employers must offer fair compensation with benefits to attract employees. You need to hire the right people that "fit" the business and the job. Proper orientation and training is strongly recommended. To help avoid confusion, good communication with each of your employees is needed. By following these guidelines, you can help to build your reputation in the community as a preferred employer.

Erven suggests we should change the emphasis placed on human resource management. We need less emphasis on what employers want from employees, and more emphasis on providing what employees look for in their employers and their jobs. Understanding the tremendous competition for good employees in a tight labor market will help an employer focus on their employee needs. Remember there is also someone else in the community that is interested in hiring the best employee candidates.

There are four key groups of non-traditional employees that Erven suggests can be an excellent opportunity for farm employees, each of which offers special challenges. Working parents, teenagers, semi-retired and Hispanics all are key sources of non-traditional farm employees.

1. Working Parents - will need work schedules that fit their family responsibilities and include day-to-day flexibility. Some farmers will train 3 working parents to fill 2 jobs, and will let the parents work around their own schedules and choose when to work. Childcare is one big benefit you could possibly provide to attract working parents. Health insurance is another incentive that parents appreciate.

2. Teenagers - will need flexible work schedules around school sports teams, clubs, etc. Teenagers often are motivated to work harder when shown appreciation and recognition. Another key to keeping teenagers happy is a ready supply of food and beverage at the work place. Transportation is another benefit you could offer to attract teenagers unable to drive.

3. Semi-Retired - often enjoy the opportunity to socialize at the work place. They, too, require flexible schedules for extended vacations, etc. A mixture of part-time, full-time and time off may be needed for a semi-retired employee.

4. Hispanics - some may need support in navigating through the agriculture community. Communication challenges must be recognized and addressed. This can present an excellent opportunity for both employers and employees to increase their awareness of diversity.

These four groups of employees can all be excellent resources for any farmer who is experiencing challenges in locating employees. Managers must keep close daily contacts with employees and their needs. A detailed, written job protocol is strongly recommended by Erven to avoid any later confusion.

Considering a non-traditional employee may provide the solution to the human resource challenges farmers are facing in today's competitive employment market.

Feel free to send your comments or questions by email to Brent Landis at the Lancaster Chamber at blandis@lcci.com or call him at 717-397-3531.

He said that work has begun on testing Roundup herbicide-resistant alfalfa. Originally Monsanto, the company that manufactures the trademarked Roundup herbicide, scheduled a release date of 2005 or 2006, but the latest news has a release date as early as 2002.

One of the frustrations that researchers and ultimately growers will face is how many "bugs" are worked out of the mixes to ensure they work effectively. Also, companies, to protect intellectual property rights, are withholding release of germplasm to universities — to the detriment of growers — and bringing products to the market perhaps too fast, according to Hall, before research can help solve some potential problems.

In the future, growers could be using yield monitors on forage harvesters similar to those on combines for grain crops. "It's easier to do for grain than forage," he said. But in five or six years, producers could be seeing yield monitors on the baler or chopper.

When spraying, according to a precision application specialist, it's important to ensure against accidental drift. To do so, keep the pressure in the lines down so the drops are larger and keep more volume of the liquid in larger drops to stem field drift away from plants, noted David Wagner, Penn State extension specialist for precision application and precision ag.

Keep each drop greater than 200 microns, he said (100 microns is about the width of a human hair), to ensure against problems of drift. Also, it's vital to calibrate sprayers, don't spray if the wind speed is greater than 5 miles per hour, spray on a hot, dry day, and fix the nozzles. Bad nozzles can cost a lot of money in excess application, Wagner noted. Wagner reviewed various flat fan and air injection types of nozzles at the meeting.

It's important to use clean water through a mesh screen to prevent nozzle clogging. If the nozzles become clogged, don't use a knife or a drill bit. Instead, use a simple toothbrush to remove the debris.

For nozzles, Europeans use ceramics. They can be more costly than brass or stainless steel. But a good alternative is the stainless steel, which will give a few years of use.

"It's too costly to not know how much spray is on the field," Wagner said. Sprayers should be calibrated correctly. "It's too costly to not have new nozzles and not calibrate the sprayer."

For control of geese, a federally protected species, there are few options that work quite as effectively as dogs, noted Tim Smail, Natural Resource Conservation Service conservationist.

Smail, who spoke at the crops day, said that dogs can work to keep geese in control and out of producers' hairs and crop pocketbook. Whatever is used has to be part of an integrated program, Smail noted.

Though producers have used various methods — including owl eyes, propane cannons, and other methods of control, which give some control over a limited time — dogs provide long-term control.

The key is to make conditions at the farm "inhospitable enough to allow (geese) to not reproduce . . . and convince them to fly farther ahead with the rest of the geese."

Farmers Speak Out About Milk Prices

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff
MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — During last week's Mount Joy Dairy Cooperative meeting in Mount Joy, four farmers volunteered to talk about the recent drop in the milk price. Here are their comments.

Gilbert and Darlene Adams of New Bloomfield milk 125 cows and farm 2,000 acres with their four sons. "The milk prices could be worse, but they could be a lot better," said Gilbert. "We just have to watch what we buy and not overspend." The Adams consider themselves fortunate because they didn't get hit as badly with the drought as other areas did. "The 2,000 acres give us something to fall back on when milk prices fall."

Joe and Jeanne Wivell milk 80 cows and farm 250 acres in Columbia. "It's just too low," said Joe. "There is too much manipulation in milk pricing." Joe doesn't see expanding as an answer to the problem. "In essence, we're our own worst enemy. If dairying were more profitable, farmers wouldn't have to expand and drive milk supply up." He admits that the average milk price for the last two years has been excellent. "If we could still average $14 per hundredweight for this year's milk, even with this low, farmers could stay profitable."

Mel and Sandy Hoffer milk 40 cows and farm 110 acres in Elizabethtown. "The low milk price can make you feel negative about a lot of things," said Mel. "It doesn't seem like it matters what we do because we can't control it. It gets somewhat frustrating thinking about the milk price going down when the bills just keep going up." The Hoffers plan to tighten their belts to get through the next couple of months. "We're not going to make any purchases that aren't necessary, and hopefully things will change."

Mike and his wife Lisa Brubaker farm in Mount Joy, where Mike milks 400 cows with his father Luke and brother Tony. "I don't like that milk prices are falling," said Mike. "But we have had two years of good prices, so they were bound to fall sometime." Still Mike admits that the prices dropped farther than he expected. "It will make margins really tight for the next several months. But at least the feed costs are low so that will help weather the situation."

Consumption of Dairy Products

HARRISBURG, Pa. (Dauphin Co.)—Dairy farmers are entering the new millennium with great news. The dairy promotion checkoff program was started in 1984 with one purpose in mind—to increase the demand for dairy products—and it's doing just that!

According to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, total milk sales have increased by 29 percent since 1984. Per capita consumption of all dairy products has risen by 11.5 percent—that's an increase of 72 pounds more dairy products per person. And total milk sold has exceeded USDA projections by more than 225 billion pounds of milk!

Dairy farmers invest 15 cents for every 100 pounds of milk they sell to fund generic advertising, marketing, promotion, and nutrition education programs for milk and milk products.

The award-winning "got milk?" advertising campaign continues to urge consumers to drink milk, as well as remind consumers about milk's nutritional benefits. The partnership between dairy farmers and dairy processors has proven to work well as fluid milk advertising will reach all ages through print, outdoor and TV outlets in 2000.

Dairy promotion dollars are funding a strong school food service marketing program. Locally, PDPP contracts with the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East to conduct programs such as "Operation COLD Milk." This program will provide 1,800 milk coolers to schools throughout the ADADC Mid East Region to improve milk's temperature, taste and image in schools. A strong chocolate milk promotion rounds out school food service efforts.

Help Spread the News

Communicating these messages to farmers is vital to the dairy industry. Representatives of PDPP are available to speak about the dairy checkoff program and how dairy farmer investments are being used.

ARDEN HILLS, Mn.—Land O'Lakes 2000 Annual Meeting is scheduled for February 23 and 24 at the Minneapolis Convention Center. Approximately 3,000 delegates and visitors, representing farmers, ranchers, and local cooperatives from 30 states are expected to attend the meeting, which focuses on the theme "Partners Creating the Future."

The program will include board, management and operations reports, as well as presentations by U.S. Trade Representative Charlene Barshefsky and nationally recognized business consultant and author Dr. Robert Kriegel (national best-sellers If It Ain't Broke, Break It and Sacred Cows Make the Best Burgers). Attendees also will have the opportunity to attend special sessions featuring National Council of Farmer Cooperatives Vice President and Chief Economist Terry Barr, Sparks Companies agricultural analyst Don Ault, and John Loken of the Land O'Lakes Dairy Foods Industrial Group.

Farming Forecast

Sunshine will be the rule Sunday and at least early Monday, but clouds will roll in ahead of a front that is expected to pass through the area Monday night. Monday should be our mildest day ahead of this front with temperatures striving ever closer to 40 degrees. There is the potential for some snow on Tuesday as a storm forms along this front and sweeps through the region.

BANANA-NUT MUFFINS

2 cups all-purpose flour
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 tablespoon baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 cup milk
 1 egg, beaten
 1 cup water
 1/3 cup vegetable oil
 1/4 cup mashed banana
 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 12-cup muffin pan. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt into medium bowl; make a well in center.

Mix milk, egg, water, oil, banana, and walnuts in a small bowl. Pour mixture into well.

Mix batter just until moistened; do not overmix.

Spoon batter into prepared muffin cups. Bake until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean or until muffins are golden brown, about 15 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

Variation: Blueberries or raisins may be substituted for mashed banana.

BLUEBERRY CHEESE MUFFINS

1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour
 1 1/2 cups white flour
 1 tablespoons baking powder
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup sugar
 3 eggs
 1 cup milk
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 6 tablespoons butter, softened
 2 cups frozen blueberries
 1 cup grated mozzarella, cheddar, cream cheese or your favorite cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Beat butter until creamy. Beat in sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time. Stir in baking powder and salt. Mash half of the blueberries and stir them in along with the grated cheese. Stir in whole wheat flour and half the milk. Stir in white flour and remaining milk. Stir in remaining blueberries. The batter will be very moist, like pancake batter. Pour into muffin tins and bake 30-40 minutes for six large muffins or about 20 minutes for 18 regular-size muffins.

OATMEAL ORANGE MUFFINS

1 cup oats cooked in 1/2 cup orange juice and 1/2 cup boiling water for 15 minutes.
 1/2 cup butter
 1/2 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 cup brown sugar
 2 eggs, beaten
 1 cup raisins
 1 cup all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream together butter and sugar. Beat in eggs and stir in oat mixture. Stir in raisins.

Add flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and vanilla.

Stir until moistened. Pour into well-greased muffin cups.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Makin' Muffins

Makin' muffins is simple even when you're in a hurry.

You can mix up a batch, and while they're baking, get dressed.

Although great-tasting muffins are sold in many specialty shops and supermarkets, home-made muffins give you more control over the ingredients. This is especially important if you have concerns about sugar and fat content. Many purchased muffins have as much fat or more than a cupcake. But if you make your own, you can substitute applesauce or mashed banana for oil or butter, and cut the sugar significantly. On the other hand, some people prefer the taste and texture achieved by using butter instead of oil.

Regardless, one of the main criteria in making perfect muffins is not to overmix the ingredients or they'll be tough. Generally it takes only one minute to combine the ingredients.

After baking, some muffins are a bit fragile and need to cool a few minutes in the muffin tin before removal.

Start with these favorites from our readers and then experiment. Throw in a handful of raisins or almonds, if that's what you like. Or eliminate the nuts if you don't have them on hand.

BUTTERNUT SQUASH MUFFINS

2 cups all-purpose flour
 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
 1 tablespoon baking powder
 1 teaspoon salt

Blend together ingredients in large bowl. In medium bowl, blend the following until smooth:

1 large egg
 1 cup milk
 1/4 cup melted butter
 2/3 cup mashed butternut squash

Combine the two mixtures, blending just until moistened. Do not overbeat!

Spoon into paper-lined muffin tins. Bake 15-20 minutes at 400 degrees.

Topping for Muffins Dutchy Crust

1/4 cup softened butter
 1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
 1/4 cup quick oats
 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix together all ingredients until crumbly. Sprinkle on muffins and bake.

Tip: Set a pan of hot water in oven when you bake the muffins to make them more moist. Also, overbeating can cause muffins to be dry. Beat only until muffins are moistened.

By combining the natural sweetness of prunes with crunchy peanuts or peanut butter, you can create some fun after-school munchies to curb kids' hunger and keep them healthy too.

Here is an easy recipe that takes only moments to prepare and will have your whole family asking for more.

Nutter 'Nana Muffins

3/4 cup sugar
 1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
 1 cup mashed ripe bananas (about 2 medium)
 1 egg, lightly beaten
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 cup (6 ounces) coarsely chopped pitted prunes
 3 tablespoons chopped unsalted dry roasted peanuts

Heat oven to 350°F. Line 12 medium muffin cups with paper baking cups or spray bottoms only with no-stick cooking spray. In mixer bowl, beat together sugar, peanut butter and oil until creamy. Add bananas, egg and lemon juice; beat until blended. Combine flour, baking powder and salt; add to banana mixture, stirring until just moistened. (Do not overmix.) Gently stir in prunes; fill muffin cups three-fourths full. Sprinkle tops with peanuts; bake 18 to 22 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 5 minutes; remove from pan. Serve warm or cool completely on wire rack.

Makes 1 dozen

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

If you are unnerved by the subject of death and dying, please skip this column.

Read the funnies instead.

If, on the other hand, you can believe that—even in death—one can find humor, then hang in here with me on this one. My qualification for addressing this subject is that an interest survey in which I took part some time ago came back notifying me that, among a few other career possibilities, I was suited to be a funeral director. Which is almost as steady work as milking cows. And surely pays better.

That all said, I was highly intrigued by a news release issued recently over a marketing survey done by a casket manufacturer. That survey found that consumers' major concerns about a burial casket was how it looked and what kind of "statement" it made about the occupant's life.

Thus it is not surprising that a Texas company is reportedly marketing Art Caskets, personalized to depict significant and important parts of the soon-to-be-interred's life and interest. A next logical (I guess) step was to license the company to use the colors and logos of favorite university sports teams on the caskets of diehard (no pun intended) fans. Sort of taking Penn State tailgating to the ultimate end.

Since many farmers are equally adamant about certain brands of machinery as faithful college fans are to their teams, agriculture could offer its own whole marketing field for this product.

What immediately comes to mind are the myriad of items, other than parts, made in the popular cheery yellow and green of John Deere. Why not a yellow and green casket for those absolutely devoted brand name equipment users, perhaps with painted on wheels, maybe a cab even? Steering wheel, optional. Or utilizing the more boxy shape of a forage wagon or, for the ultimate have-the-last-laugh jokester, a manure spreader. Fabric stores already carry a line of J.D. logo yardages, which I've seen creatively styled into everything from quilts to boxer shorts, so finding an appropriate lining should be a cinch.

With a good repertoire of popular equipment brand-name paints—and the proper licensing agreements—a creative casket artist could reproduce any number of machinery lines, current or historic. A Minnesota friend, for instance, has a whole equipment shed full of classic Case tractors and would no doubt vote for a final paint job in the traditional orange of his beloved antiques.

And one might have chiseled on the memorial stone the old farm line: "Outstanding in his/her field." Which is probably more appropriate than the logical—but probably politically incorrect—option: "Plowed under."

For our orchard friends, reproductions of storage crates might be reminiscent of the simple, utilitarian pine boxes of yesteryear. Which have always made more sense to me, anyway, than overpriced, glitzy caskets. And a granite marker reading "Final harvest."

The artistic possibilities for memorial tributes to agriculturalists are almost unlimited: from grain-bin complexes to draft horse pulling sleds, combine cabs to fresh produce displays (I've seen some really nice ones on the sides of reefer-trucks lately), cotton pickers to cranberry bogs, aquaculture to artichoke stands.

While economics and aging have sliced the ranks of the nations' dairy farmers to only about 90,000 of us remaining, we still have traditions to uphold. For us devoted breeders of the Holstein cow, whose black-and-white markings have been depicted in every other product imaginable, a spotted casket would seem the obvious choice when departure time arrives.

For a memorial slab, why not the obvious: "Moooooved up?"

Perhaps I should reserve that one personally.

And trust that I get sent the appropriate direction.

Feb. 9 Is Food Check-Out Day

GLENMONT, NY—New York Farm Bureau reminds consumers that Wednesday, February 9, is Food Check-Out Day. A mere 40 days into the calendar year denotes when the average American will have earned enough income to pay for their entire year's food supply.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, on average, American consumers spend only 10.9 percent of their disposable income for food. When applied to the calendar, that comes out to 40 days. That diminishing length of time seems even smaller when compared to last year when the average American had to work until May 11, an additional three months, to pay for their taxes.

"Food Check-Out Day is a terrific day that commemorates our farmers as some of the most efficient producers of food in the world," said Judi Whittaker, New York Farm Bureau Promotion and Education Chair. "It also demonstrates to the public just how much they benefit from the proficiency of our farmers, by obtaining an endless supply of safe and affordable food in the marketplace."

To help celebrate the occasion, New York Farm Bureau will be donating food to Ronald McDonald Houses across the state. Numerous counties will also participate by promoting the message of affordable food throughout their communities in grocery stores, schools, libraries, small businesses and their local media.

For additional information on Food Check-Out Day, contact your local country Farm Bureau President or New York Farm Bureau at 1-800-342-4143.

Baking with Whole Grains

Tiny-sized snowflakes are dancing from the sky in our first northeastern storm of the season. There is no better time to turn on the oven and whip up a quick batch of bread.

If you have children at home, involve them in helping you to make it. Even toddlers can help by dumping measured ingredients into the mixing bowl and by helping with some of the mixing.

It works at our house!

You might ask yourself, why bake bread?

Maybe you made a resolution for the new millennium to eat more healthfully. Unlike the old wife's tales that abounded years earlier, we know that bread can be the foundation of a healthful diet. It's what we choose to put on it that makes it a healthy choice or adds unwanted calories. So, let's explore some whole grains to bake and cook this winter.

Many of us are familiar with whole wheat flour. Try starting a Saturday morning by mixing the ingredients for whole wheat bread. You'll love the aroma that fills your home. And you'll be providing your family with much more fiber than the bleached variety of wheat. Just one-quarter cup of whole wheat flour provides four grams of fiber! Oatmeal is also an excellent source of fiber.

Oatmeal is often known for its ability to help lower blood cholesterol by providing lots of soluble fiber. Just one serving of cooked oats provides eight grams of fiber. Oatmeal is easy to add to cookies or muffins. Let's explore some other grains that may be less familiar:

•Wild Rice—Did you know that wild rice is actually not a grain but a grass grown from seed? Traditionally, Native American Indians harvested wild rice. It is often picked, cured over smoke fires, sifted, and graded for packaging. That's why you'll find it more costly than white rice. It is very nutritious.

•Barley—Barley has been eaten since prehistoric times. It's hearty to grow and is great when added to soup. Try whipping up vegetable barley soup on one of these cold, wintry days. You can also purchase barley rolled as you do oatmeal to use in baking breads.

•Millet—Millet is used for hay or silage and also is quite tasty as a breakfast cereal. It's slightly sweet flavor is an unusual outcome of this brightly colored gold grain.

•Cornmeal—Cornmeal is probably a more familiar grain. Cornmeal muffins are a great compliment to many meals. Cornmeal is a gift from Mexico. The corn kernel is milled to form the cornmeal.

Not only are grains fun to bake with in the winter, they are a great source of fiber. The National Cancer Institute recommends we consume 20 to 35 grams of fiber each day. Most of us consume about half of that. Soluble fiber reduces the risk of heart disease and diabetes. Oats and beans are excellent sources of soluble fiber.

Insoluble fiber is soluble fiber's counterpart. You'll find insoluble fiber in vegetables, wheat, grains, and broccoli stems. Insoluble fiber is noted for protecting against colon cancer and for providing the bulk that our bodies need to help to keep us regular.

If you're wondering where to find some of these tasty, healthful grains check your grocery store first. If that search is not fruitful, try a local grain mill or a local health food store. Try baking or cooking with a new grain in the next two weeks. It'll be fun and healthful as well. Bon appetit!

Here's a recipe to get you started:

Cranberry Apricot Whole Wheat Muffins

- 1 cup dried apricots, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/3 cup dried cranberries
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 5 tablespoons fresh orange juice
- 8 tablespoons unsalted butter, melted
- 1-1/4 cup all purpose flour
- 1 cup whole wheat flour
- 1/2 cup buttermilk
- 1-1/2 tablespoons baking powder (approximately)

1. Combine the apricots and cranberries with 1/2 cup of the sugar and the orange juice in a medium-sized bowl. Let stand for 30 minutes.

2. Preheat the oven to 375 degrees F.

3. Grease a twelve-cup muffin tin.

4. Combine the flours, remaining 1/4 cup sugar, baking powder, baking soda, and salt in a bowl.

5. In a separate bowl, beat the eggs with the butter until smooth. Stir in the cranberries, with all of their liquid. Beat in the dry ingredients. Stir in enough buttermilk to make a soft batter. Do not overbeat.

6. Fill the muffin cups about seven-eighths full. Bake until firm and golden brown, about 15 minutes.

Cool the tin on a rack for 10 minutes before unmolding the muffins.

EVERGAIN AEROBIC EXERCISER
For Better Health, Fitness & Relaxation

Ideal for people who don't have time to exercise.

Excellent for older people and those who are overweight and can't exercise. 5 minutes on this machine is equal to 20 minutes of walking.

Gain benefits for life with the Evergain Aerobic Exerciser.

Major Benefits Experienced By People Using The Aerobic Exerciser

1. Increases the oxygen level in the blood.

Insufficient oxygen in the blood can cause many health problems. The vacillating motion of the machine stimulates the sympathetic nerve and also expands the bronchial tubes and reactivates the respiratory system to increase the intake of more oxygen.

2. Stimulates the lymphatic system.

Since the lymphatic system does not have a pump like the heart, it depends on exercise to pump the fluid through the lymphatic system to rid the body of toxins and waste matter.

3. Improves the blood circulation.

People who sit or stand on the job, or the elderly who just sit and lay around and don't exercise, can develop a stagnant and sluggish circulatory system. As a result, the nutrition doesn't get distributed throughout the body that it needs and neither can it get rid of toxins and impurities. So health problems develop.

4. Aligns The Spine To Relieve Back Pain.

With the body reclining on a flat surface, no weight on the spine, and the back of each foot laying in the cradle of the machine which moves left and right it wiggles the spine like a fish swimming through water. This oscillating movement helps to realign the spine.

5. Increases the energy level.

The controlled oscillating movement stimulates the whole body including the immune system. This can result in increased energy and stamina. When a person is tired, a few minutes on the machine works wonders.

6. Produces a relaxed feeling.

5 minutes on the machine before going to bed can give you a relaxed restful experience 10 minutes or more in the morning can stimulate your body and get you off to a good start for the day. 10 minutes any time during the day can help tired and sore muscles. Instead of laying on the floor, older and overweight people can lay a board across the bottom and full width of the bed and set the machine on it.

Ideal for people who don't have time to exercise, and older people who are overweight and can't exercise.

Learn Culinary Chocolate Secrets

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.)—Rick Wolff, executive pastry chef at The Hotel Hershey, will share some chocolate culinary secrets in a class, Chocolate 101, being held at the Hershey Museum. The class, designed for adults, is scheduled for 10:00-11:45 a.m. on Tuesday, February 22. Cost is $25 members, $30 non-members, pre-registration is required; call (717) 534-5722.

Chocolate 101 presents a fundamental education on chocolate. Chef Wolff will take participants through a tasting session and cover variables of European versus American tastes in chocolate. Geographic origin of the beans and how it affects taste is also addressed. Participants will make a take-home chocolate crafting project using techniques that Chief Wolff will illustrate for the class.

Chef Rick Wolff studied for many years with prominent chefs, including culinary olympic gold medal winner and judge, Gunther Heiland. He studied sugar show piece techniques for a year with Roland Messnier, the White House Pastry Chef in Washington D.C.

Chef Wolff has prepared desserts for every president from President Carter through President Clinton. He is known as one of the new American pastry chefs that have combined old world skills with new and innovative presentation.

Professional Tree, Shrub Pruning Workshop

TOWANDA (Bedford Co.)—Pruning is the removal of plant parts, usually shoots and branches, but sometimes buds, roots, flowers or fruit in order to meet a human objective. Proper pruning incorporates science, a knowledge of plant biology into the skill or art of pruning techniques. Unfortunately, many trees and shrubs are not trained or pruned properly in the nursery or landscape.

"Pruning for Professionals" is designed to teach the fundamentals of pruning shrubs and small trees in the landscape. Participants will learn pruning theory, terminology, and plant biological response in the morning. This will be followed by a "hands-on" session outdoors where pruning theory will be applied in the field. This program is intended for commercial landscapers and grounds maintenance personnel. Participants will learn how to renovate and maintain evergreen and deciduous shrubs; make pruning cuts that reduce the potential for decay; thin out small flowering trees; select and use proper pruning tools; and perform work in accordance with ANSI A300 National Tree Pruning Standards.

The workshop is scheduled for Thursday, March 23, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at Luzerne County Community College Conference Center in Nanticoke. The cost of the workshop is $35 and includes extensive reference packet, lunch and refreshments, and a small class size that is conducive to learning. For more information, contact Penn State Cooperative Extension at (570) 825-1701 or 602-0600 or your local county office of Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Rick Wolff, executive pastry chef at the Hotel Hershey, discusses the finer points of chocolate with a class at the Hershey Museum.

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Bugs was one of the problems addressed at last week's Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention in Hershey.

But Brooks Way, a fifth generation farmer in Centre County and the newly elected president of the State Horticulture Association, has a bug he can't get rid of.

"There are many bugs you can contract in the Dominican Republic, but the one bug that stayed with me is the mission bug," Way said. "To serve someone else gives us purpose."

At the convention's Women's Auxiliary luncheon, Brooks, his wife Sharon, and daughter Sara, 20, presented a program on their missionary trips to the Dominican Republic.

Several years ago, the Way family took a vacation from their 375-acre farm, where they grow 10 acres of strawberries, 1 acre of sweet cherries, two acres of tart cherries, 20 acres of peaches, 80 acres of apples, 25 acres of sweet corn, and 15 acres of pumpkins.

"I'm a full-time farmer," Brooks said of the operation that requires seven to 20 employees depending on the season. All farm produce is sold at three area farmers' markets.

"I didn't want to go to a tourist area," Way said of his decision to visit the Dominican Republic several years ago.

After one trip, the Way family said they were "hooked" and have now participated in three mission trips to the Republic with plans to go again in March.

These visits aren't lay-in-the-sun vacations, but industrious work projects to better the living conditions of the natives.

The visual imagery via slides and the descriptive accounts of the area revealed severe poverty made worse by Hurricane Mitch. About 200 people drowned when a wall of water hit the village. The villagers had only seven minutes warning during the night. Because it was pitch dark, the people didn't know where to go or what to do. Those who sought shelter inside were trapped and drowned in the water. Those who survived did so by clinging to building roofs and trees.

The government refused to let the people rebuild because the land was condemned as a flood plain. Because they have no place to go, the people stay there and are known as squatters in the area now considered a ghetto. The villagers add parts to their windowless shacks as they salvage or can afford to purchase them.

"While there, I discovered a reason for roaches," Way said. He recounted seeing a man beating the outside of his house in a morning ritual. The noise brought hundreds of roaches swarming to the outside. The man scooped handfuls of the roaches and flung them to his chickens. As far as Way could determine, that was the only feed the chickens were given.

While there, the Ways visited a dairy farm.

"It was the skinniest group of cows I've ever seen," Way said.

Three cows produced only about one quart of milk during milking time.

The cows' back legs were tied together during milking. Although a strainer hung on a nearby fence post, it was not used during the milking operation. Instead the unstrained milk was sold to a waiting mother.

The Ways were fascinated to see pigs tied to a rope to graze. The pigs seemed content to root in the short patch of ground that the rope's leeway allowed.

In a pen, about 150 chickens had their legs tied together. Whenever someone purchased a chicken, it was dressed while the customer watched.

A few signs of entrepreneurship were evident. A woman erected a small booth outside the medical clinic. In the booth, she cooks a meal and sells popcorn to waiting patients.

In the village, children under two years of age never wore clothing. Sharon said this is probably due to the fact that natives can not afford to purchase diapers.

Unsanitary conditions prevail. Pictures showed a community outhouse located next to the village water supply. The public sewer was a shallow ditch that ran through the area.

Although the village has electricity, it is an unreliable source of energy as it is often turned off for 12 hours at a time. But that doesn't keep the natives from hot wiring electricity from overhead wires.

Typical food fare for all three meals is a dish of rice and kidney beans.

Parents are not legally responsible for their children after 8 years. For this reason, kids roam in the street from morning to night. They basically stay in their own area because the area is territorial. They are not safe if they wander into another area claimed by children's gangs.

Children are not required to attend school. Instead schooling is considered a privilege.

The group going on the mission trip included doctors and dentists who worked from morning to night addressing the many medical needs of the natives. Sara assisted the doctors.

It is the church's groups desire to teach the natives skills that can support them. The American dentists taught one native how to clean teeth and left the needed supplies with him.

On one visit, the Calvary Baptist group helped build a medical clinic. In others, they helped at a boys' orphanage. The 68 boys lived in the most primitive conditions with only the bare necessities. The mission group collected clothing and sneakers for the boys and built wooden lockers for each of the 68 boys to store their possessions.

Amazingly each boy found a pair of sneakers to fit from the donated pairs.

It was the first time most of the children had the opportunity to select clothing, and the Ways described the excitement the event aroused. Each of the boys also painted their plywood lockers using stencils and sponges to print their names and decorate with other designs.

The boys had been fascinated with the few bicycles available. In addition to riding them, they often dismantled and rebuilt the bicycle. Way has collected 27 donated bicycles, which he has dismantled and will ship over for his next visit on March 1. Two motorcycles have also been donated and will be shipped on a cargo plane the church has rented.

"The boys need material stuff, but they also need personal attention," Way said. During previous visits, some of the boys just wanted to be held.

Even in the Dominican Republic, the Way family saw some sights that reminded them of home. They saw the distribution of canned food in boxes marked Food for Relief, which had been canned in Belleville and Lancaster.

They also saw apples being sold that were shipped from Hess Brothers Fruit Company, Leola.

Apples are in great demand but limited supply. As an orchardist, Way was fascinated to see apples being sold for 50 cents a piece. At this price, few natives can afford to purchase them. The businessman who sells the apples does not want to have more apples shipped in because he prefers to sell them at a high price rather than buy in volume, see the price drop, and sell more.

Unlike the U.S., the richest people are the farmers. But the fruit is exported and natives are not able to purchase it.

When Way went to purchase materials at a hardware store, he noticed many people laughing at him. He was told that the residents consider that only the poorest of the poor wear shorts. By his outfit, he was considered too poor to purchase the items. People who work wear dress clothes even for manual labor.

While the U.S. and the Dominican Republic have different codes of conduct and opposite business philosophies, the Way family has bonded with the villagers. Finding ways to help the villagers has become a way of life for the whole family. In addition to Sara, the parents also have a son Benjamin, 16, and daughter Megan, who is married.

Contributions for the project can be made to Calvary Baptist Church, University Drive, State College, PA 16801; earmark for the Dominican Republic.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 3

Last year activities of Farm Women Berks County Group #3 had been filled with food, fellowship, and donations to various charities. Members started the year in January with the annual reading of our by-laws and with a speaker, Rosemarie Frankfitali, from the Women in Crisis.

In February, members held a pound auction for the American Heart Association. Everyone brought one pound of whatever they wanted wrapped in red.

In March, members had an Irish sing-along. Talented Sonya

Moyer from Boyertown played the accordion as members sang. The society also held a dime pitch and donated the money to the March of Dimes. In April, the group had a dinner and a tour of Walnut Woods. In May members visited the library in Boyertown. In June the group went to Classic Flowers, Main Street in Oley. Members annually get together at the house of Jeanette Miller from Barto for our family picnic. Members played bingo and various games, and had lots of food. August came and members had an enjoyable day at Trexlers Game Park. In September members made a craft for fall by putting vinegar and different spices in a jar to be used when needed for cooking. In October members tried to starwatch, but it turned out not to be such a clear night and only certain stars were visible.

November came and the society had a mystery raffle where everyone donated one dollar for a mystery gift that was donated that money to another organization.

To end our year members enjoyed a delicious dinner at The Historic Pleasantville Inn, Pleasantville.

York Society 26

York Farm Women #26 held the November meeting at Cumberland Cafe at New Cumberland with 13 members attending. Martha Huston and Jan Sechler were hostesses.

The Christmas banquet was a dinner theatre held December 4 at Trinity Church at New Cumberland. Athena Beshore, Evelyn Beshore, and Ruth Traver were on the committee.

On January 6, Lancaster County Farm Women #20 met at the home of Jane Ferguson with Valaria Ferguson as co-hostess. Following the refreshments Valaria read from Matthew 18 and "A New Year's Prayer."

Valaria presided at the business meeting. The Sunshine Committee reported two cards were sent and Valaria gave a report of the County meeting she attended.

Plans were made for attending the state convention in Harrisburg with Anna Mary Groff, Freda Wimer, Marie Foose, and Valaria are the delegates. "Habitat for Humanity" is the charity being sponsored.

For the program many of the members told of different snow storm memories. The meeting closed by singing "Brighten The Corner." The February meeting will be at the home of Vera Herr with Jean Ressel as co-hostess.

Berks Society 1

The November meeting was held at the home of Martha Levan. President Gerry Marsteller presided. The Bible was read followed by the Lords prayer and Flag salute.

Members sampled cookies and exchanged recipes.

The October convention was discussed. Berks Heim Bingo was discussed and the need for angle food cake and prices.

Members donated five dozen cookies and money for Santa's corner.

The December meeting was the Christmas party where secret pals were revealed and new ones chosen.

ANSWER — A reader wanted the recipe for the ultimate cheese cake. Thanks to Fawn Bartleson, Martins Creek, for sending it.

Ultimate Cheesecake

- 1 pound ricotta cheese
- 1 pound cream cheese, room temperature
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 4 eggs, beaten
- 3 tablespoons corn starch
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- 1 pint sour cream

Brush 10-inch springform pan with melted butter and dust with graham cracker crumbs. Beat ricotta and cream cheese until smooth. Add sugar and eggs, blend well. Add corn starch, flour, lemon juice, vanilla, melted butter, and sour cream. Beat until smooth.

Bake at 325 degrees for one hour. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes to brown top. Turn off oven and let cake stand in oven two hours. Cool in refrigerator.

Here is a different recipe from Madeline Van Leuven, Mantua, N.J.

Cheese Cake

- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 cups flour
- 2 eggs
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream butter and sugar. Add flour, baking powder, and then eggs. Mix well with fork, pick up small pieces of dough with floury fingers, flatten and pat into position of bottom and sides of 12x8-inch pan.

Filling:

- 1 pound cream cheese
- 4 eggs, separated
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 4 cups milk

With electric mixer, beat cream cheese and sugar. Add flour and egg yolks, add lemon juice, vanilla, and milk. In small bowl, beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into cream cheese mixture until well blended. Pour butter into uncooked crust. Sprinkle top with cinnamon. Bake in 350 degree oven for 40-45 minutes. Allow to cool uncut for three hours before putting into refrigerator.

Sometimes Madeline drains a can of pineapple and places the pineapple on top the unbaked crust then pours the cream cheese mixture over pineapple and cooks as directed.

ANSWER — Walter Durling sent this recipe that Catherine, Strasburg, had requested. This recipe for Buffalo wings calls for frying, but if you are looking for a less greasy alternative, grill the meat instead of frying. Serve with blue cheese dressing. You can substitute thighs for the wings — no bones, no tips to throw away. Just good eating!

Muffins

BANANA-NUT MUFFINS

- 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 medium ripe bananas, mashed
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Grease muffin-pan cups or use paper liners. Beat together butter and sugar at medium speed until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in bananas until smooth. Mix together flour, salt, baking powder, and baking soda. Alternately stir flour mixture and buttermilk into egg mixture until dry ingredients are just moistened. Stir in nuts and vanilla. Do not overmix batter; it will not be completely smooth. Spoon batter into prepared pan, filling two-thirds full. Bake until lightly golden brown, 15-18 minutes. Cool slightly in muffin pan. Turn out onto rack. Makes about 20 muffins.

ORANGE ALMOND HONEY MUFFINS

- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup butter, softened
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup orange juice concentrate
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1/2 cup chopped toasted almonds

In a small bowl, combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; set aside. Using an electric mixer, beat butter and honey until light. Beat in egg, orange juice concentrate, and orange peel. Gradually add flour mixture, mixing just until blended; stir in almonds. Spoon into eight greased or paper-lined 2 1/2-inch muffin cups.

Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove muffins from pan to wire rack. Serve warm or at room temperature.

CORN FLAKES PECAN MUFFINS

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 1 cup crushed cornflakes
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Blend ingredients in large bowl. In medium bowl, combine the following:

- 1 large egg
 - 2/3 cup milk
 - 3 tablespoons melted butter
- Combine two mixtures, beating until just moistened. Do not overbeat. Spoon into paper-lined muffin tins, filling 3/4 full. Bake 15-20 minutes at 425 degrees.

Cook's Question

Original Buffalo Wings

24 chicken wings, about 4 pounds
Salt and pepper to taste
4 cups vegetable oil
1/4 cup butter
2 to 5 teaspoons hot pepper sauce
1 teaspoon distilled vinegar
Blue cheese dressing

Heat oil in deep-fat fryer or large heavy pot to 375-degrees. Cut off tips, and separate each wing at joint. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Place half the wings in deep fryer. When wings are golden brown and crisp, remove and drain well. Salt wings to taste. Add remaining wings and repeat frying process. Once wings have drained a bit, place them in a large mixing bowl.

Melt butter in small saucepan. Mix in hot sauce and vinegar. Pour melted sauce over cooked wings, and mix to coat the wings with sauce. Serve with blue cheese dressing.

Makes 24 wings.

ANSWER — Jody Applebee, Pratesburg, N.Y., wants a recipe that tastes similar to chow chow made at Kitchen Kettle Village. Thanks to a Paradise reader for sending a recipe.

Chow Chow

3 quarts green beans
3 quarts yellow beans
3 quarts carrots
2 quarts red pepper
2 quarts kidney beans
1 quart sweet pickles
1/2 pint onions
1 quart celery
3 pounds cauliflower

Cook together all vegetables, not too soft and wash in cold water after cooked so the chow chow gets nice and clear.

Juice:

2 quarts white vinegar
2 quarts water
7 pounds sugar
2 tablespoons celery salt
14 tablespoons salt

Combine juice ingredients and bring to a boil. Fill vegetables in sterile pint jars or clean quarts, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Add pickling solution, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Adjust lids and process pints 5 minutes in boiling water bath or 10 minutes for quarts.

ANSWER — Mrs. Arthur Robbins, West Oneonta, N.Y., wanted a recipe for peneuche fudge. Norma McClure, York, sent the recipe her late aunt made and the family loved it. This is different than the one printed in last week's issue.

Brown Sugar Candy (Peneuche)

4 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup milk

Combine ingredients and cook until it reaches a rolling boil for about three minutes until a teaspoon of the mixture dropped in water forms a ball.

Remove from heat and add one teaspoon vanilla and thicken with peanut butter.

Here is a different version from Ruth Aument, Peach Bottom. She writes that this fudge is a little softer. It can also be used as a frosting by adding a few drops of hot water at a time until it reaches spreading consistency. It's very good on apple butter or spice cupcakes and even better on chocolate cupcakes.

Quick Walnut Peneuche

1/2 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup milk
2 cups confectioners' sugar
1 cup chopped walnuts

Butter sides of saucepan. Melt butter in saucepan; add brown sugar. Cook over low heat 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add milk and continue cooking and stirring until mixture boils. Remove from heat. Cool. Gradually add confectioners' sugar until mixture reaches fudge consistency. Stir in chopped walnuts. Spread candy in buttered 8x8x2-inch pan. Chill. Cut in squares. Makes about 36 pieces.

ANSWER — Madeline Van Leuven, Mantua, N.J., wanted to make chocolate covered pretzels. She has dipped crackers and mini Ritz crackers into chocolate and asked if the same chocolate coating could be used or if a special chocolate needs to be used for the pretzels. Thanks to Joyce Grim, Bucks County, for writing that her church group makes the pretzels. You can use the same milk chocolate as for crackers, but do not cool in the refrigerator as they might become discolored.

Home Gardeners School

MIFFLINBURG (Union Co.)

— Don't miss the third annual Home Gardeners' School, presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension in cooperation with area garden clubs.

The school is scheduled for Saturday, March 11, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Mifflinburg High School, Mifflinburg, Union County.

Sessions includes topics on herbs, shades, perennials, roses, vegetable gardening, floral design, ornamental grasses, garden structures, and soils. Especially timely, after last year's drought, will be the main session presentation by Barbara Martin on Xeriscape — The Watersaving Landscape.

The $20 registration fee includes a box lunch, snacks, and door prizes.

For more information or to register, call Mary Carbaugh at (570) 275-7848 or write to her at 161 Moser Rd., Danville, PA 17821.

NOTHING RUNS LIKE A DEERE®

Kids Korner

Travis, Paula, and Laura help each other get around in the snow. With drifts of two to three feet, sometimes it's easy to get stuck when you're a kid.

Snow Makes For Fun Adventures

Laura and Travis like to play with their baby lambs, Snowball and Marshmallow. Even in two feet of snow, the kids still trek out to see the sheep everyday.

Paula is busy making snowballs. She has to prepare for her brother Travis's favorite activity, snowball fights.

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff
EAST BERLIN (Adams Co.)
— While the first warning of a substantial snow storm brings to parents' minds bad roads, stranded loved ones, and shoveling backaches, to kids it means one thing — FUN.

What kid wouldn't love days off school, all-day sledding adventures, and neighborhood snowball fights? Not to mention the toasty hot chocolate and marshmallows that mom makes when the kids return to the house.

The kids enjoy playing in the snow and visiting their many animals. Their favorite animals are the baby lambs, Marshmallow, Snowball, Amy, and Jamie. Marshmallow and Snowball are pets for Laura and Travis. The kids' older sister Shannon also has two ewes that are soon going to have baby lambs.

Travis likes to be the king of the hill, standing on a pile of snow in the Holtzinger's front yard.

Laura likes making snow angels in the snow. The angels show up really well in two feet of snow.

The calves are also a favorite for Laura, Travis, and Paula. Each time a new batch of calves arrives in the calf pens, each child gets to pick a new pet calf.

Laura's favorite thing to do in the snow is go sledding, while Travis loves making and throwing snowballs. Paula enjoys playing with the family's new Cocker Spaniel puppy, Copper.

Whatever the adventure, the Holtzingers always have lots of fun on the farm, especially when it snows.

MAZE

Ida Risser

As I write this, we are getting snow and all public schools are closed. It is the kind of weather that reminds me of our wedding day. We got married toward the end of January and there was such a big snow storm that day that we could not even go on our wedding trip. However, we did get started the next day on our trip to Florida.

Our children remembered us with cards on our 52nd anniversary. As Allen's hip operation does not allow him to crawl into a car, we couldn't even go out for a meal to celebrate. So, I drove to the grocery store and bought a pizza as that is something that we seldom enjoy. Then I stupidly burned the roof of my mouth as I've done before.

It is no wonder that public sales often have a snow date in case of inclement weather. Speaking of public sales, there is one that has my interest as a Conestoga wagon is being sold. It has been in my family since before the Revolutionary War and was used to haul wheat or flour to Philadelphia. I'm told that there is a lot of interest in buying it—even out-of-state people are inquiring. It has hung in a small barn on the Shreiner family farm for ages. The running gear was used for farm work.

All of the photos that I've taken last year and those that I've been given are now safely stored in books. I have filled two scrapbooks with newspaper articles too and now I'm sorting woolen garments to start another braided rug.

We've been given flowers and plants recently, and I must learn how to care for them. One is a big Hibiscus plant with large red flowers. This is a new kind for me and I'll hunt instructions in one of my flower care books. My plants help to keep me busy this winter.

Lancaster Farming Staff

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) —

After 32 years of working as a nurse in a doctor's office, Pat Spangler has seen too many women die unnecessarily.

She intends to change that.

She said, "Many Amish and Mennonite women don't have annual mammograms. Unfortunately, by the time they have symptoms, the breast cancer has often spread to other organs and is too late to treat."

Breast cancer, Pat said, is a cancer that can be cured when diagnosed early enough.

"Some women think they can't afford a mammogram, but it is offered free or at a low cost to uninsured or underinsured women," Pat said.

The free service is available through the American Cancer Society.

According to Pat, one out of every 8.2 women will develop breast cancer at some point in life, based on full life expectancy.

The average age of women diagnosed with breast cancer is 60 years. But that doesn't mean younger women do not need regular check ups.

For most types of breast cancer, the cause is unknown. But women whose mothers or other family members have had breast cancer are more disposed to develop it. These women should have regular checkups from age 20.

Risks increase if a woman has started menstruation before age 12 or menopause after age 55. No pregnancies or a first pregnancy after age 30, and radiation exposure also increases the risk.

Research also shows that breast cancer is more likely to develop in women whose diets are high in fat.

On Feb. 15, 7 p.m., Pat and a group of health-care volunteers will teach a Breast Cancer Awareness Program at the Bareville Firehall, 211 E. Main St., Leola.

Topics discussed include risk factors of breast cancer, the value of regular checkups, services available through the American Cancer Society, the importance of mammography and self breast exam methods. An educational film will illustrate normal and abnormal mammograms.

Although it is important for women to do regular self-breast exams, "Often a mass is picked up by a mammogram that could never be detected by self examination," Pat said.

Information includes facts that many women aren't told. For example, women should not drink caffeine before a mammography or schedule it before menstruation. Both may cause fluid retention and prevent detection.

The program is free and free transportation is also available. The program is open to all regardless of where they are living.

Pat also provides the same program to women's groups whenever requested.

She said, "The American Cancer Society has so much information available for all types of cancers. They also have support groups and will team up a cancer patient with a recovered patient."

If a women is diagnosed as having a breast mass or other abnormality, funding for surgery and health care is also available through the American Cancer Society.

For more information or if transportation is needed to attend the awareness program, call Pat at (717) 656-6122 or (717) 687-7434.

"Awareness and early detection are the best defense against breast cancer," Pat said. "Come and bring a friend. It could save your life."

Exercise Facts

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—If getting into a regular exercise program was your New Years' resolution, this information may provide even more incentive.

Benefits of Exercise

Individuals who do an aerobic (oxygen using) activity at least three times a week for a minimum of 20 to 30 minutes may benefit from these physiological changes in the body:

- Increased stroke volume—the heart can pump more blood with each contraction.
- Increased ability of the body to carry oxygen to the working muscle.
- The heart is able to rest more between each beat.
- Good cholesterol or (HDL cholesterol) may actually increase.
- Decreased blood pressure in some people.

For persons who are sedentary, any increased level of exercise or physical activity is beneficial.

Aerobic Advantages

For an exercise to be aerobic, it must:

- Use large muscle groups.
- Be maintained continuously for a minimum of 20 minutes.
- Use heart and lungs.

Aerobic activities include walking, swimming, jogging/running, bicycling, aerobic dancing, rowing, jumping rope, stair climbing, and cross country skiing.

Getting Started

Some things to remember if you're new to exercising:

- First, see your doctor for a complete physical exam.
- Choose an aerobic exercise program to maximize health benefits.

•Warm up before and cool down after exercising to prevent injury and let blood return to your heart.

•Breathe fully during exercise.

•Wear proper shoes to provide adequate support and cushioning.

Exercise Fact versus Fiction

1. Fiction: Exercising gives you less energy.

Fact: Most people feel exercising gives you more energy. Regular exercise can also help you combat fatigue and stress.

2. Fiction: Exercising increases your appetite.

Fact: Exercising will not increase your appetite; in fact, research shows exercise increases the number of calories burned by the body for up to 12 hours after vigorous exercise.

3. Fiction: Exercising takes too much time.

Fact: Regular exercise does not have to take more than about 25-40 minutes 3 times a week. This is the equivalent of watching three television shows per week. Once you have established a comfortable exercise routine, exercise becomes a natural part of your life.

4. Fiction: The older you are, the less exercise you need.

Fact: As we age, we tend to become less physically active, and therefore, need to make sure we are getting enough exercise. In general, middle-aged and older people benefit from regular exercise just as young people do. However, tailoring the exercise program to your own fitness level is important at any age.

Cut faster... condition better

For greater maneuverability and higher efficiency, nothing beats the Model 1431 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner from New Holland. It features a 13' cutting width, and operates at high ground speeds in wet, heavy grass without plugging. Fire anthills and gopher mounds won't stop the new Model 1431 either.

Outstanding features include:

- A center pivot-tongue design
- Independent modular cutterbar with ten small-diameter cutting discs
- 102" wide conditioning rolls
- A full range of vertical and lateral flotation
- A torsion-bar roll-pressure system
- A cutterbar driven from both ends

Dr. John Dole talks about his work with growing cut flowers in the greenhouse and how growers can benefit from the research.

Ed and his son Justin Weaver from Weavers Orchard in Morgantown come to the Convention primarily for education. The seminars keep them updated on what's happening in the industry from new products to chemical uses. The Weavers grow about 100 acres of mostly tree fruit with some small fruit and vegetables. They also own a farm market where they sell about half of their produce.

Miriam Cooper of Cooper's Mill said their homemade apple butter is still made in a copper kettle over a wood-burning fire.

The Heilers from Bainbridge, N.Y., have been coming to the Convention ever since it started. "We've been here through the renovations and all." Parents Joshua and Wilma and their son and daughter-in-law, Seth and Debbie, are vegetable and small fruit growers. They come to the convention to learn about new chemicals and vegetable varieties. "We learn as much from the other growers who attend as we do from the exhibitors," said Wilma.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff
HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Many farm families are capitalizing on cut flowers' appeal to consumers.

Some families sowed a few extra seeds and sold the blooms at roadside stands. The flowers sold so well, that the following year, the families planted many more. Now some of these farm families have erected a greenhouse around a section of field.

But the demand for some varieties didn't appeal to the masses the following year.

"One think I've learned. You can't trust your own opinion. Some flowers that I think will sell well — don't, and others that I don't expect to sell well — do," said John Dole, Oklahoma State University.

Dole led one of several sessions on cut flowers at the Mid-Atlantic Fruit and Vegetable Convention conducted in Hershey last week.

Dole runs trials every year on greenhouse cuts. He and his staff experiment with new varieties and new methods of growing compared with the tried and proven.

Because many field-cut growers are getting into greenhouses, Dole showed slides to demonstrate how simply-erected greenhouses can evolve over the years to become better and more efficient.

Dole recommends planting in six to eight inch raised beds, using treated wood sides or concrete. While a grower can start out with ground walkways, concrete can be added later to keep walkways cleaner.

Another method that works well is to use bulb crates. These can easily be moved and even put in the cooler if needed when blooming. Cuts can also be grown in pots. Because labor costs are higher, pots work better used as fill ins for additional product.

Keep in mind that crops can be damaged by personnel walking up and down walkways to care for the plants.

Drip irrigation works best for watering.

"Do not allow plants to wilt. They may come back but with a kink — they won't be straight," Dole said of the stems.

"Netting must go on immediately, something that first-time growers often learn the hard way," Dole said. "If you wait until the plants need the netting to keep them growing straight, it's too late."

While some growers plant the flowers they like and are accus-

Ralph and Edna Styer from Muncy come each year to keep up with the new things. They own five acres of pick-your-own blueberries. The Styers have been coming to the Convention for about 20 years and now consider it their yearly vacation.

A Lancaster County Amish family grows herbs to make jellies and vinegars. Here Patricia McAlevy representing Lower Valley Gardens, Christiana, offers samples to visitors at the convention.

This is the first Convention for Jayme Styer, a pesticide applicator from Lewisburg. She is looking into getting her vegetable license and wanted more information before taking the test. "There's a lot of interesting things here," she said.

'Plant For Millennium'

tomed to growing, there are drawbacks.

"Many of these flowers are already being grown. Check out the market to see if the markets are being filled in your area. Grow specialty cuts that others aren't growing," Dole said.

He has found that many rose growers are reducing rose production and increasing specialty cut production.

"Competition in traditional cuts are high. It's cyclical," he said of people's preferences.

Although flowers can be grown in greenhouses year-round, harvest time and size varies due to the amount of sun. Supplemental lighting helps during cloudy winter weather.

Experiments have been conducted comparing various hours of sunlight in the greenhouse. Although longer crop time is required during low-sun months, value is still cost effective. However, some flowers need longer hours of sun. But too much sun also has drawbacks. Stems don't grow as long.

Dole showed slides of many different varieties of cut flowers that are popular.

He said that cut poinsettias have proven to be great sellers this past season and pink poinsettias are being grown for the Valentine market.

Shelf life varies from 14-19 days with a commercial preservative. Without a preservative, the cut poinsettias last from 11 to 14 days. The problem is that foliage falls off before bracts.

Both written and spoken information abounded at the three-day convention; however, heavy snow dampened attendance.

Marketing sessions offered many unique ideas. A trade show with 130 commercial exhibitors included some growers who offer value-added products by using the herbs, fruits, and vegetables grown in their gardens.

Does your body get the oxygen it needs?

(Adapted from a quiz by Dr. Eigi Noguchi)

Check all the boxes which apply to you -

- ☐ I wake up tired, even after eight hours of sleep
- ☐ I sleep restlessly, waking up frequently
- ☐ I suffer from chronic fatigue
- ☐ I have poor physical endurance
- ☐ I tend to be moody and irritable
- ☐ I am susceptible to colds and flu
- ☐ I suffer from allergies
- ☐ I frequently feel tense and on edge
- ☐ I am frequently constipated
- ☐ I have frequent pain in my shoulder and/or back
- ☐ I have weight problems
- ☐ I crave sweets, alcohol or soda

If you checked more than three boxes, your body might not be assimilating sufficient oxygen. Please consult your physician. You may wish to have your blood oxygen levels tested before and after you begin to use the Chi Machine.

HTE USA, INC.

My research has convinced me that lack of oxygen is the root of most or perhaps even all disease.
Dr. Shiro Inoue

"In only three weeks of using the Chi Machine, I lost 15 pounds effortlessly - and hospital lab tests showed that my blood cholesterol level dropped from 225 to 160 mg."

How do I use my Chi Machine?

- * Place the machine on a rug. Lie on your back and put your ankles in the grooves of the footrest on top of the machine.
- * Set the timer switch to activate the machine for the number of minutes you desire. First time users should start with 2-5 minutes.
- * The footrest will begin to move back and forth, carrying your feet briskly from side to side. This movement will carry up through your legs and torso, throughout your entire body, causing you to wiggle back and forth - that's right like a fish swimming in water.
- * All you do now is relax and breathe deeply, letting the machine rock you gently but firmly for a maximum of 15 minutes.
- * When the time is up and the machine stops remain lying down for another two to five minutes relaxing and breathing deeply, enjoying the remarkable afterglow - chi - as it moves throughout your body.

In two months of using the Chi Machine my thighs, hips, stomach and buttocks now look as good as they did when I was in my 20's - and I'm almost 52.

Food coloring

Place the pieces of coal or broken brick in shallow glass bowl, six-inches in diameter. Mix the salt, bluing, water, and ammonia. Pour slowly over coal or brick. Sprinkle different colors of food coloring over the coal or brick.

Crystals form as the liquid evaporates. They will start to form within 30 minutes. Let the garden stand for two days. It will grow and grow, and may even spill over the edge of the dish.

Some sources say to use coal or charcoal briquettes and sprinkle with a few drops of food coloring instead of using mercurochrome, which may have been added just for color.

ANSWER — Eva Marie Poliquin, 242 Pilgert St., Alburits, PA 18011, is looking for a reasonably priced wringer to do laundry. She does not need the washer part, only the wringer. Thanks to Richard Herring Sr., who recommends she read the mailbox sections of this paper because this item is advertised almost every week.

ANSWER — Pete Westover wanted used but serviceable draft-size work harnesses. Thanks to Kevin Wormald for writing that he has one to sell. Write to Kevin at R.1, Box 735, Paxinos, PA 17860.

ANSWER — L. Garner wanted the names of suppliers of handcrafted soaps, lotions, and bath products. Nancy Mayer writes that she has lots of experience making handcrafted soaps of saponified olive oil, palm oil, coconut oil, and avocado oil. She sells retail and wholesale. Call her at (570) 586-0145 or e-mail soaplady99email.msn.com

Get Moving

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.)—If you are like many folks this time of year (myself included) you may be finding it more difficult to get moving. It's no secret that it's beneficial to be physically fit.

When you are fit you look and feel your best. You have the strength, flexibility, and endurance you need for daily activities.

Balancing work, family life, and leading a healthy lifestyle can be challenging. In addition to fitting all of your responsibilities into the day, it's important to eat nutritious, tasty meals, and to include regular physical activity to help you look and feel your best.

If you are already moving regularly, don't stop. If you do not currently exercise, become more active by just moving more. When you increase your physical activity level or exercise, you gain muscle. Muscle uses more calories than fat tissue, but takes up less space. Also, your leaner body uses extra energy both while you are exercising and for 24 hours afterwards.

As you gain muscle and lose fat you may begin wearing a smaller size, eat more and stay at the same weight or eat the same amount and lose weight. Fitness has other health benefits, too. Exercise aids sleeping, helps to keep blood pressure and stress under control, and promotes emotional well-being. Folks who exercise regularly reduce their risk of heart disease, diabetes, and osteoporosis.

So . . . What are you waiting for? Let's get moving!

Please start slowly and listen to your body. Don't be an all or nothing person. Start with 10 minutes of walking or using a piece of equipment, when it gets easier increase your time. If you start exercising too fast or too hard and you don't pay attention to your body's signals you will talk yourself into not exercising anymore. If you have not been exercising, talk to your physician before you begin any new exercise program.

Make sure you choose an exercise/activity that you enjoy. Find a friend to do it with. It's harder to back out when you know someone is depending on you. This will also keep you motivated. If you miss a day or two don't punish yourself. Get back to your routine as quickly as possible. It is also important to include a variety of activities when you exercise. Exercises such as weight-lifting, leg lifts, abdominal crunches, and push ups are examples of weight bearing exercise and increase the strength of muscles, bones, and joints. Aerobic exercises such as brisk walking, jogging, cycling, or swimming increase your endurance.

Don't try to exercise on an empty stomach. If you have not eaten for several hours, you will soon run out of energy and feel lethargic. Eat something high in carbohydrates within two hours before your exercise. Just half a bagel, a handful of pretzels, a piece of fruit, or a carton of non-fat yogurt is enough to help you perform at your best.

Remember to drink plenty of water or other fluids before, during, and after exercise. Always remember to stretch before and after exercising to increase flexibility, reduce stiffness, and lessen your chance of injury. It is important to set realistic goals. Pick activities you enjoy. If you get bored, try something else, but keep moving!!

Spring Craft Show

RUTGERS, N.J.—The Seventh Annual Breath of Spring Craft Show is being held on March 18, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Hunterdon County Extension Center on route 31 north of Flemington. Admission is $1.

excellent crafters with hand made crafts: wood carvings, weaving, folk art, American Girl Doll clothes, dried herbs and flora, jewelry, Easter items and much more.

Make it a family day! There will be crafts for children to make and a visit from the Easter Bunny. Also available will be a variety of spring plants, baked goods, and a lunch menu. Hope to see you on Saturday, March 18. This event benefits the N.J. State 4-H Association.

You Ask, You Answer

ANSWER — G. Sweitzer, Airville, wanted information on converting five to ten horsepower gasoline engines to run on kerosene instead of gasoline. Thanks to Joseph Fisher for writing that his father had a McCormick Deering five horsepower that had a small cup for gas. As the engine warmed up, he slowly switched from gas to kerosene or used only gas. Either way, no changes were needed.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know if the cross stitch store, Stitch in Time, which had been at Brickerville, had moved elsewhere or if it went out of business? Thanks to D.M. Weiss and several others for writing that the shop went out of business.

ANSWER — Mr. Serventi has a coal stove Lennox Furnace Co., Equator #QC 65/Q065. The center shaker is broken, and Serventi wanted to know where he can purchase either a new or old replacement part. Thanks to Richard Herring Sr., for writing that several dealers are located in the West Chester area: Wesley G. Wood Inc., West Chester, PA. Call (610) 431-2626 or (610) 692-5252.

ANSWER — Joyce Gable, York, wanted to buy a cannister set in the folk art pattern by Pfaltzgraff. Thanks to Annie S. Kauffman who writes that she has one to sell. Write to her at 1624 Cambridge Rd., Honey Brook, PA 19344.

ANSWER — W.V. Haagen wanted the words to the following song. Thanks to Pauline Sensenig, Gladys S. Martin, Ephrata; Meg Bush, Elmira, N.Y.; Roger Garber, Chambersburg; Amanda King, Churchtown; Moses Renno, and others for sending similar versions.

Bill Grogan's Goat

There was a man. Now please take note, There was a man, who had a goat. He loved that goat. Indeed he did. He loved that goat just like a kid.

One day that goat felt frisk and fine, ate three red shirts, right off the line. The man, he grabbed him by the back and tied him to a railroad track. Now, when that train hove into sight, that goat grew pale and green with fright. He heaved a sigh, as if in pain, coughed up those shirts, and flagged the train.

William Halls Goat

There was a man named William Hall, he brought a goat way back last fall.

He did not buy this goat for fun, he bought it for his little son.

One day this goat, so big and fine, spotted a red shirt on the clothesline.

He rolled the shirt in a cherry ball, swallowed the red shirt, clothesline and all.

Now Mr. Goat, you're not so shy. This very day, you'll have to die.

He took him down on his little back.

When Billy heard the whistle blow, he thought of times of long ago. With tears in his eyes, like a shower of rain, he coughed up the red shirt, and flagged down the train.

RESIDUAL

WITHOUT RAIN

The contact control of DuPont Basis Gold® herbicide knocks out both grasses and broadleaves even if it doesn't rain. And when it does, the residual kicks in and protects you all the way to harvest. You can use Basis Gold® in a one-pass, total post, or as part of a two-pass program, and you can use it on virtually any corn. Giving you the flexibility to do things the way you want to do them. Contact and residual, talk about

A WINNING COMBINATION.

HAGER, MOYER & RETALLACK SALE

Along with the hundreds of thousands of dollars paid for a chair and a Conestoga wagon at an Ephrata public sale Saturday, many other antiques were sold including a Queen Anne lowboy for $20,500 and a Chippendale fret-carved wall mirror for $15,000.

Those items were bought at the same sale that saw a Philadelphia Queen Anne chair bring $450,000 and a Conestoga wagon made by John Landis for Michael Shreiner sell for $52,000. The sale of the collections of Mary Hager, Lancaster; the late Carl Moyer, Elverson, and John Retallack, Akron, was held at the Horst Auction Center, 50 Durlach Road, Ephrata.

Other items sold before 525 bidders from 21 states included an Emanuel Meily Lebanon tallcase clock, $14,000, a set of signed Tiffany flatware, $8,100, a Chippendale tilt-top table, $2,900, two Chippendale high chest of drawers, $6,500 and $4,900, a miniature tavern table, $7,800; a mahogany bachelor's chest, $1,600; a two-piece corner cupboard, $1,400, and a signed Elliott Chippendale mirror, $6,100.

Also sold were a set of eight Federal revival shield back chairs, $6,100; a Duncan Phyfe dining room table, $4,900; a Henry Slough of Lancaster blanket chest, $1,000; three inlaid chest of drawers, $3,100, $2,200, and $1,900; a Chippendale slant-front desk, $2,400; a Chippendale side chair with claw feet, $4,600; a paint-decorated library table, $6,100; and a set of five paint-decorated chairs, $1,000.

Also sold were a gray painted corner cupboard, $8,800; an English oak coffer, $1,000; a bow-back Windsor side chair, $1,300; a punch-tin pie safe, $3,100; an Imperial music box, $1,400; two paintings by Jacob Eichholtz, $2,000 and $2,100, a dated 1843 tablecloth by Mary Nisly, $2,600; a Mahantango Valley taufschein (baptism certificate), $6,700; a Portzline fractur taufschein, $10,000; and two printed Ephrata taufscheins decorated by Otto, $2,050 and $1,150.

Other items included two folk-art paintings by Hattie Brunner, $4,500 and $4,600; a folk-art bird carving by Texter from Berks County, $4,400; a folk-art carving by Wolfskill, $1,300; a Lancaster County militia ledger, $950; an 1861 Civil War sword, $975; a photo album with 23 Civil War soldier photos, $1,750; a yellow painted dough tray, $3,000; a wooden trencher bowl, $850, a Remney decorated stoneware jar, $1,150, and a Moravian fish-shaped bottle, $4,100.

Among the other items sold were a slip-decorated redware loaf dish, $4,000; a signed Medinger redware vase, $5,300; a Chinese export platter, $1,150; a set of four silver master salts, $1,000, a pair of silver-covered dishes, $2,250; a pair of tin wall sconces, $950; an advertising cigar lighter, $3,800, a double student lamp, $1,350, a pair of Steuben-style covered jars, $975, a set of eight Moser glass goblets, $850; a Mount Washington pickle castor, $1,350, a signed Kelva humidifier, $975; and a signed Nakara box, $1,400.

The sale was cataloged by Clarence E. Spohn

56 Registered and Hi-Grade Dairy Cows 56
13 Registered Holsteins

9 Reg. Ayrshires - 5 Cows - 4 Heifers

Sample of those selling:

Currently milking 30 12 fresh last 45 days. Another 10 due in the next 30 days. Majority of herd comes fresh Feb./March. Currently averaging 50-55 lbs. per pickup.

Sample of those selling:

Rob - 4 yr. old Trident, 2nd place All-American 3 yr. old Mikala - strictly fresh Ayrshire Dam Grand Champion Junior Ayrshire at All American 1990.

Fern - Reg. Ayrshire, coming fresh 2nd time milky heifer.

Jeffy - Grade Holstein 2nd time coming over 100 lbs. is a two year old, silky udder.

Vickie - Reg. Crt, just fresh, starting to turn it on.

Lilac - Reg. 5 yr. old, Kim Daughter currently dry "nice cow"

These are just a few of the cows selling. You will find these cows to have good udders, feet and legs and a will to milk. They are fed both outside in a bunk and inside the tie stall barn. If you need some replacements or a couple of good fresh cows, plan a trip to Valley Stockyards on the 17th.

Catalogs at ringside. Interstate tested. 9 -way shots. Restaurant will be open.

Owners:
Bo & Melissa Elliott
570-358-3368

Note: Currently dairy cattle market is strong, especially holstein heifers. Now would be a good sale to put them in. If you have a group of heifers or a dairy you're considering selling, give me a call for an estimate or out-right purchase. This will be a good sale to consign to.

Low Milk Prices Spark Frustration Among Pennsylvania Dairy Farmers

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) - Dairy farmers across the state are struggling with record low prices for their milk, and some are blaming the nation's milk pricing system. But an expert from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences says the expanded milk production in Western states, not a new price system, is the reason for low prices. "Farmers received very high milk prices in 1998 and 1999," says Kenneth Bailey, associate professor of agricultural economics. "They responded by expanding milk production -- especially in Western states. Some states, such as California, New Mexico and Idaho, saw growth rates of 10 to 15 percent. But in Pennsylvania, milk production grew less than one percent in 1999."

"Milk prices, which started this year at record lows, could stay depressed for four or five months," Bailey says. "In many cases, prices will be below the cost of production for Pennsylvania dairy farmers. Unfortunately, prices are declining just as a new method of national milk pricing is coming in, and some dairy farmers may see the new system as the reason for their problems."

Effective Jan. 1, 2000, the U.S. Department of Agriculture instituted a major overhaul of the 60-year old federal milk marketing order program. The overhaul will streamline and improve the nation's wholesale milk pricing system by tying prices more closely to commodity prices for butter, cheese and powdered milk. Unfortunately, Bailey explains, the new order reforms coincide with record low wholesale prices for cheese and butter. Beleaguered dairy farmers from Pennsylvania and other states recently protested outside the Maryland Statehouse for fairness in milk pricing.

"But milk prices would be low whether or not we had order reform," Bailey explains. "The cause of these low milk prices is basically supply and demand. All of that excess milk production had to go somewhere; it went into cheese vats. Cheese production in 1999 grew 6 percent over a year ago. In the West, cheese production grew 12 percent. Demand, however, has been relatively steady. As a result, cheese stocks in public warehouses were up 10 percent at the end of December, and are growing."

Inflated cheese stocks will keep milk prices low, Bailey says, until the milk glut passes through the nation's system. Dairy farmers have no choice but to wait out the low prices.

"Farmers I've talked with are frustrated with these low prices, especially when everyone else is benefiting from a strong national economy," Bailey says. "Expansion in Western states should slow down this year. In the meantime, Pennsylvania dairy farmers will have to try to ride out the storm. Milk prices will be better in the spring."

Bailey suggests that farmers consider 'forward contracting' on milk prices with dairy cooperatives if they can lock in a fair price. Right now those opportunities are limited. Farmers also should budget their monthly income and expenses for the year. That's especially important when prices are low. Farmers also can try to lock in other costs, such as feed concentrates, interest rates and fuel costs, if they are reasonable.

Dairy farmers can find useful financial planning strategies, up-to-date forecasts and a budgeting model for projecting the year's income at Penn State's Dairy Outlook site on the World Wide Web at <http://www.aer.spsu.edu/dairyOutlook>. "We're coming up with new things for the Web site -- new tools that I think will help dairy farmers," Bailey says. "We're going to be training cooperative extension agents with a spreadsheet that helps farmers to budget their income. We also have projections on what milk prices will be for six marketing areas in Pennsylvania for 2000."

"It's very important that Pennsylvania farmers understand what causes their milk prices to fluctuate each month. With these tools, farmers will be able to sit down with their Penn State cooperative extension agent and plan out their cash flow."

SE8
In Stock

The Rhino® SE8 is an economical rotary mower designed to help maintain larger acreages of grass, weeds, stalks, or material up to 1" in diameter.

The streamlined, close-coupled design allows economical operation on tractors as small as 30 horsepower on the SE8 and 45 horsepower on the SE10. The 85 HP center gearbox and 60 HP outboard gearboxes are protected from sudden shockloads by a slip clutch on the main driveline and torque dampers on the side driveshafts. Pan blade carriers help the unit glide over field obstacles and updraft blades with a 4" blade overlap provide a clean cut.

Optional Equipment

The 900 blade is available in widths of 7', 8', and 9' and features a heavy-duty CAT I-II three-point hitch and CAT 11 quick-hitch. The 9' model is rated for up to 95 PTO HP wheel-type tractors. Mainframe swing, moldboard angle, and moldboard tilt adjustments are easily made by relocating the index pins manually. Maximum offset from the center line of the tractor is 30" for working outside dual wheels. The 900 blade features a 3" diameter solid steel kingpin and a reinforced 3/8" x 17" moldboard to withstand the horsepower of larger tractors. The circular moldboard carrier plate allows adjustments throughout the full 360 degrees of moldboard angle to help accomplish numerous jobs easily. The quick-tach end plates are a helpful feature when trying to move or level bulk material, including loose soil or gravel. Skid shoes, quick-tach end plates, CAT II quick coupler bushings, and a gauge wheel are optional equipment.

The Shortest Turning Large Tractor You Can Own Today! Simple, User-Friendly Operation.

Industry Leading Turning Radius

The revolutionary chassis of the MX Series Magnum improves your overall performance and productivity. In fact, the innovative Surround frame allows for the tightest turning radius in the industry, even with front duals!

Thanks to axle improvements, engine placement and a sleek hood design, the MX Series Magnum can easily turn into 12 30-inch rows with all row crop tire configurations on true 60-inch tread settings.

The new, single-piece, sculpted, cast iron Surround frame is the key to the enhanced capabilities and performance of these tractors. It enables the MX Series Magnum to offer the first factory front duals, dramatically improving both traction and flotation. By balancing the chassis, we've significantly reduced the amount of front ballast required. And the frame easily accommodates mounted chemical tanks or loaders, allowing you to perform multiple applications.

Open House 2000

We are holding our annual open house on February 10th and 11th. Everyone is invited to attend this event. Featured this year will be 10% cash discount specials on all farm supply products and parts. We will also have a huge truckload sale on farm supplies as well as a clearance item sale at unbelievable prices. We will also be holding mini seminars each day by veterinary and state extension professionals. Topics will include mastitis causes and controls as well as milking system performance. Our recent parlor installations will be open these two days for self touring. You can see basement, herringbone, and parallel parlors from DeLaval, Universal and Germana.

Our feature this year will be the introduction of the Universal robotic milker to the US market. You will not want to miss this chance to be the first to view this machine and see the future of dairy farming. Our open house will be held at the Pleasant Hall Fire complex in Pleasant Hall, Pa. For directions and more complete information, please call us at 717-532-6139. Whether you are a local dairyman or an out of state one, this event is for you.

Match A Spreader To Your Needs

Get Unmatched Flexibility At A Great Price.

With eight sizes to choose from and a wide variety of options, it's easy to see how the New Idea® 3700 Series Spreaders meet the needs of any operation. Their aggressive, main beater paddles are strategically spaced and angled to shred a wide range of material while giving you a consistent spread pattern.

Culvert-grade galvanizing over one-piece, copper-bearing steel sides provide a barrier against rust and corrosion. And for hauling long distances, the truck-mount option proves to be the safest, most economical way to transport large amounts of material.

To see how simple it is to customize your spreading operation, contact your AGCO® New Idea dealer today. You'll be surprised how much time and money you'll save with the New Idea 3700 Series Spreaders.

Add up the Super Boom™ advantages

No skid steer compares to a New Holland LS 160 SuperBoom™
Add up the advantages:

- Superior visibility: no rear frame towers in your way.
 - Unbeatable stability: longer wheelbase and lower center of gravity. The only skid steer that can go uphill, going forward.
 - Faster speeds: every model beats its competitive counterpart
 - Superior dump height & reach: vertical boom lift path makes it the best.
 - Greater bucket & lift capacity: longer wheelbase and lower center of gravity lets you lift more, handle larger buckets
 - The most attachments: More than 60 attachments available with more coming all the time. Super Boom™ also works with most competitive attachments
- Stop by today and see for yourself why no other skid steer can compare to the LS160

Built for the long haul

The New Holland Model 195 is a spreader you won't buy too often because it's going to be with you for a long time.

Here's why:

- Corrosion-resistant steel sides
- Indestructible plastic floor boards (HDPE)
- 12-year guarantee for FREE floor and sides if they fail

The Model 195 carries a 287-bushel load with ease. We'd like to show you why this is the best-selling spreader in its class.

#70555 DELWEACO Cathedral 4/4 Wall Westminster Chime Clock!
 The long cathedral rods sound very much like the Grandfather or Grandmother hall clock. Do not confuse this clock with those that use the shorter rods, crosswise in the case. Uses the Hermle 351 KEY WIND Westminster Chime movement in a Cherry finish case! The case is hand rubbed for a super sheen. The ivory dial, black, easy to read numbers, and the special pendulum make this a heirloom for the next millennium!
 This clock is quite large; 13-3/4 wide x 31-1/2 long! We have had numerous requests for a clock like this and finally decided to bring this one in from Germany.
 Traditional key wind, 8 day movement. Chimes every 1/4 hour, plus strikes the hour after the chime are finished chiming on the hour! Color prints available - ask us.
This is an exceptionally NICE looking and NICE sounding clock!

Grazing Livestock 300 Days Every Year

John Comerford
Associate Professor
Penn State

Over the past 20 years, US livestock producers have adopted many grazing management principles practiced in New Zealand, Ireland and other locations. The "discovery" of these practices has had a profound influence on livestock farming here, resulting in higher stocking rates, better forage management and lower feeding costs. Length of growing season, however, is a significant difference between Pennsylvania and many other areas. To fully exploit management practices from other locations, they must be refined to address environmental conditions specific to Pennsylvania.

Length of growing season and use of multiple forage species provides both advantages and limitations to successful grazing. With few exceptions, the cost of production will be reduced by extending the grazing season as long as possible.

The reasons for cost savings include:

1. There is no harvesting cost when the animal harvests the feed itself.
2. The only overhead cost we will have is portable fences and fertilizer.
3. There is no machinery cost,

4. There is no feeding or storage loss of nutritive value of the forage;

5. There is a significantly reduced labor cost;

6. There is less animal concentration, manure handling, and potentially fewer diseases.

To determine if a grazing system could be developed to extend the grazing season in our environment to 300 days per year, from a present average of 200 days, the beef cattle research group at Penn State designed an experiment. Here are a few of the results of that study:

* A planned and coordinated grazing program will require several forage species. Not surprisingly, the greatest need for non-traditional forages was in midsummer (when conventional cool season species are least productive) and when growth has stopped but there is little or no snow cover. For midseason grazing we tried brassicas (rape), annual grasses (sudangrass and its hybrids), and alfalfa/grass combinations. In our comparisons, it was evident the alfalfa/grass combinations worked best for us and probably at the least cost. The varieties do not come without problems. Bloat must be managed with poloxalene blocks, and fertility and grazing management must be kept at a high level to retain the alfalfa in the stand.

For grazing in fall and winter, some grass must be stockpiled. The species of choice for stockpiling is endophyte-free varieties of fescue. This part of the grazing program requires significant management experience because the land base necessary to stockpile grass and effectively extend the grazing season must be determined on an individual-farm basis. Adding the use of corn grain crop aftermath grazing in the fall for spring-calving animals can be very helpful. Corn crop residue is an effective feed source for these animals, and, when properly managed for grazing with portable fences, can provide an average of about 25 days for each animal unit (1000 pound of grazing animal) per acre.

* A more unconventional approach to harvesting and feeding forages is needed. Producers may need to quit baling hay on their own farms and purchase it. There are two reasons for this: 1) the cost of owning and operating haying equipment for producers with small herds and flocks is prohibitive to reducing feed costs; and (2) we may make more profitable use of the land we now drive over by allowing cows to graze it instead.

* A planned rotational grazing program must be in place. The high cost in a grazing program is land, so it is imperative to graze as many animals over the available land as possible. The best way to increase stocking rates is by rotationally grazing pastures which allows the forage to be managed. A planned program is one which maximizes the growth of quality forages for an entire grazing season. Excellent management of grass growth is the key to success of a rotational grazing system.

* Some unconventional steps are needed to manage grass and extend grazing. An example of this is feeding hay in August in a good year so the stockpiled grass can grow, or bushhogging paddocks in April and May so the grass remains vegetative longer into the summer. Your more conventional neighbors may question your sanity, but remind them of it when they are fighting mud and cold when feeding hay in December while your cows are out grazing!

* The livestock enterprise must be viewed as a means of using grass we produce. To be most efficient at producing and using grass, the whole farm must become the production unit, losing the labels of "hay ground, summer pasture, wintering lots, etc." Land and facilities resources need to be effectively pieced together with the single goal of extending the grazing season most profitably. Lower cost should drive these decisions, meaning there may be fewer animals on the farm. However, with a lower cost of production, profitability may be greater.

* Livestock can be grazed effectively for 300 days in Pennsylvania if we use grazing and land management principles that, while sometimes unconventional, are based on lower production costs and higher profitability.

Every farm is different, so every grazing program will also be different. However, there is evidence to show that management and informed decisions by livestock producers in Pennsylvania can reduce production costs and extend the grazing season.

Organic Farm Meeting Feb. 17

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.)—Production, networking, and marketing are all needs of most farm producers, especially new or transitional organic farmers. Experienced organic farmers may have insight and leadership skills to share. A meeting will be held to help determine what these educational needs are. The meeting is being organized by a group of Penn State extension agents in southeast Pennsylvania.

"Organic Farm Production Education in Southeast Pennsylvania: Is There A Need?"

will be Feb. 17 from 7:30 p.m.-9 p.m. at Kutztown University in the "Old Main" Building (Blue Room).

Farmers who are considering organic production, are transitional, or certified organic are welcome to attend. Participants are asked to bring a certified organic snack to share. There is no charge to attend.

Participants are asked to pre-register with Penn State Cooperative Extension—Berks County by Feb. 11 at (610) 378-1327, fax (610) 378-7961, e-mail: BerksExt@psu.edu.

Hog Farmers Deliver Pork Directly To Consumers

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Mike and Kate Yankauskas are beating the hog crisis by selling and delivering their pork directly to the people who eat it.

Their direct marketing approach, and the right-to-your-door delivery service, brings more money into a family farm that a couple of years ago was in real danger — more money, at least, than they'd get if they sold the hogs at market along with everyone else.

"When hogs dropped to eight cents, we just thought, 'What else could we do?'" Mike Yankauskas said. "I could have gotten an outside job. Kate could have too. We just didn't want to."

So the Groverton couple took two hogs to a local meat packer and had them packaged for sale. They told friends, neighbors, and relatives about the business.

Word spread fast, and now Kate and her sons deliver bacon, hams and other cuts from 24 hogs a month to customers in a refurbished mail truck fitted with a freezer and painted with the company name — The Pork Shop.

Delivering pork is not just a timely idea for the Yankauskas family.

Farmers are grappling with record-low hog prices and a two-year market free fall that is forcing some pork producers to quit the business. Prices for all varieties of crops and livestock are floundering.

The Yankauskas are finding it rewarding too.

Compliments for the meat, usually delivered within days of being cut, abound. People buy it, like it and buy again. Then they tell others about it.

"We can handpick the best 10 percent of our hogs based on the kind of cut we know we're going to need, whereas the grocery store kind of has to take what it gets," Yankauskas said.

The Pork Shop is beating the local grocers' price too, with the added bonus of the family who raised the hogs delivering the meat to your front door.

Greg Gunthorp of LaGrange is another farmer who's selling his pork products himself, but in different ways. He and his wife, Lei, are raising their hogs out of doors and without the aid of any chemicals.

The all-natural pigs are drawing a lot of interest and generating a lot of new revenue for the farm, especially from high-end restaurants across the Midwest.

And they're marketing their meat with a concession-stand style catering service at events in their area — getting paid to serve crowds. That's become a free advertising tool because diners learn they can buy the meat from the Gunthorps.

They too have learned to go around the resellers. They could sell a hog at market for $80. But by selling to consumers and retailers directly, they could get $400 a hog.

"That's still the biggest obstacle for a lot of farmers is the marketing," Greg Gunthorp said. "The production part has gotten easy, but the sales process is, well, those are skills that are never really taught."

Ellitsburg Educator Awarded National Service Citation

ORLANDO, Fla. — Samuel R. Wagner, Ellitsburg, Pa., received the NAAE Outstanding Service Citation on Dec. 11 at a special awards program here at the National Association of Agricultural Educators (NAAE) annual conference.

As an agriculture teacher and FFA adviser for 35 years, Sam Wagner has kept the West Perry agricultural education program successful in spite of the changing needs of the agricultural community. Originally focused on production agriculture, the program moved to cover agricultural science and consumption of agricultural products to meet the needs of students.

Leadership is also emphasized, as the FFA remains one of the most active organizations in the school. Parliamentary procedure is used highly in the organization and other clubs in the school district use the FFA chapter as a resource regarding the conduct of meetings.

Wagner was challenged with economic constraints during 1980-1983 as the summer agricultural education program was discontinued. This reduction of summer activities was detrimental to the agricultural education program, but after a change in administration, an initiative to rebuild the program began.

While teaching at West Perry, his students have won numerous awards, including bronze and silver National Dairy Foods teams.

Wagner's 35 years of service is distinguished with leadership positions in professional, civic, community, and agricultural associations. His many awards include the Honorary Pennsylvania FFA Degree, Honorary American FFA Degree, Pennsylvania agricultural teachers association Honorary Life Membership Award, and the NAAE 35 Years of Service Award.

The NAAE presents the Outstanding Service Citation to individuals who have contributed to the advancement of agricultural education on a regional or national level.

"Agricultural education needs the support of capable people who know the value of quality education that prepares students for the world of work," said NAAE President Tom Kremer. "This award recognizes individuals who provide resources to make agricultural education a most relevant and meaningful educational experience."

NAAE is the professional association for agricultural educators.

LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS "P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 900 with a mixing capacity of 900 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

Flotation Farm Tire Has Longer Wear

AKRON, Ohio—Goodyear has introduced a new design in the Super Terra-Grip LW high-flotation farm tire that promotes longer and more even wear.

The available sizes for the Super Terra-Grip LW are the 48X25.00-20NHS and the 48X31.00-20NHS.

"Traditional high-flotation tires often experience uneven wear, particularly if they are driven a considerable amount on hard surfaces in between job sites," said Dave Weed, Goodyear's applications engineer for farm tires. "We altered the distribution of the tread so there is a 40 percent increase in the surface area that is in contact with the ground. That extra surface area accounts for the more even wear and the longer life."

By redistributing the tread instead of simply increasing the amount of total tread surface area, Goodyear engineers were able to avoid creating a heavier tire.

The 48X31.00-20NHS, which can be used in the steer or rear positions, comes with either 10- or 12-ply ratings. It has an overall diameter of 49 inches, an overall width of 30.5, and a centerline tread depth of 38/32. The 10-ply tire has a 30-mph load rating of 5,840 pounds at 30 pounds per square inch inflation pressure, while the 12-ply is rated for 6,950 pounds at 40 psi.

The 48X25.00-20NHS is a steer position tire with a 10-ply rating. With a diameter of 49 inches and a width of 25 inches, it is capable of hauling 6,150 pounds at 35 psi at speeds of up to 30 miles per hour. It also has a centerline tread depth of 38/32.

This line of tires is typically used on fertilizer spreaders.

Pig Feeders Offer Easy Clean Option

MILFORD, Ind.—Chore-Time has added an easy washout option to its Generation III™ nursery and finishing feeders that allows those pig feeders to be cleaned without moving them from their operating position.

The Chore-Time feeder's Easy Clean Option operates by means of a small gate at the end of the feeder's trough. The gate slides up to allow wash water to escape from the feeder trough during the cleanout process. The gate is raised or closed and locked into position with a top-mounted control using the same design as Chore-Time's easy-set feeder adjustments.

Chore-Time has also added a floor bracket that holds the feeder three-fourths of an inch (19 millimeters) off the floor to allow a pressure washer access under the feeder.

The company's stainless steel Generation III™ feeders were developed for market pigs to help producers to prevent feed waste while also saving hours in feeder adjustment and cleanout time. Other pig feeders available from Chore-Time include a tube feeder for wean-to-finish and finisher pigs, a paddle feeder for wet or dry feeding of nursery or finisher pigs, unique round feeders designed to work with the pig's natural feeding preferences, and a variety of drop feeders for sows and boars. The company also offers ventilation systems as well as feed storage and conveying equipment.

Novartis Introduces New Products

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Novartis Crop Protection, Inc., in 1999 introduced several new products for use on fruit and vegetables, received label expansions on a few more, and is in the midst of developing and introducing more innovative chemistries and products.

New Fungicides

•Vanguard®. This reduced risk systemic fungicide was registered on pome fruit, grapes, stone fruit and almonds in 1998, with the first commercial usage opportunity for most growers coming in 1999. It was registered in New York State in spring 1999. It is effective against early season primary and foliar scab in apples, especially in cooler conditions. Vanguard offers a 48-hour reach-back control and five- to six-day forward disease protection against apple scab. In grapes, it controls botrytis bunch rot and in stone fruit it controls brown rot blossom blight. Vanguard has a new mode of action with no known cross resistance to other classes of fungicides.

•Flint™. This reduced risk advanced strobilurin fungicide was registered in the fall of 1999 on pome fruit, grapes, and cucurbits. Flint should be registered for use by mid-February in California, with registration in New York expected sometime in 2000. Flint exhibits unique locked-in properties, which means that it has a high affinity with the plant surface and is absorbed by the waxy layers of the plant. It penetrates plant tissue and has translaminar activity. On apples, it will be used to control foliar and fruit scab, powdery mildew, sooty blotch, and fly speck. It also suppresses some of the fruit rots. In grapes it will be used to control powdery mildew and black rot and will suppress downy mildew. Flint has excellent rainfast quality. Label additions of fruiting vegetables and hops are expected in 2000. In 2001, Novartis hopes to add stone fruit, citrus, and nuts to the Flint label.

•Orbit™. Propiconazole, the active ingredient in Orbit, provides early and late disease control on stone fruit. Orbit controls brown rot blossom blight at early bloom and controls brown rot when applied pre-harvest. New for 2000 is a registration for applications from petal fall to pre-harvest on stone fruit for powdery mildew control and, additionally, on sweet and tart cherries for control of cherry leafspot. This product has 48-hour reachback and 10- to 14-day residual protection. It has 0-day PHI for extended fruit rot protection after picking.

New Insecticides

•Proclaim®. This semisynthetic insecticide is derived from a naturally occurring soil micro-organism. Proclaim is a synthetically altered form of abamectin, the active ingredient in Agri-Mek®, and is highly selective for lepidopterous worm pests, including diamondback moth, beet armyworm, and tomato pinworm. Proclaim disrupts the nerve impulses of target pests, so they become paralyzed and stop feeding quickly. Proclaim is now registered for use in head lettuce, celery, and head and stem brassica crops outside of California, Arizona, and New York, with registrations expected in those three states in time for 2000 use season.

•Fulfill®. This new insecticide that specifically targets aphids received EPA registration in fall 1999 on potatoes and tobacco. Fulfill stops aphids from feeding on plants within one or two hours after contact or ingestion. Feeding, formation of honeydew, and plant damage are abruptly halted, although aphids may remain on a plant for several days after treatment. Fulfill can also significantly reduce the spread of persistently transmitted viruses such as PLRV. Fulfill has minimal effect on non-target insects, including predators, parasites and pollinators.

•Agri-Mek®. In recent years, growers are using Agri-Mek insecticide/miticide on apples with oil at petal fall for more effective mite control. This early, post-petal fall application allows the active ingredient to be easily absorbed by the young foliage and gives six weeks control, the longest lasting mite control at the lowest cost per day. On apples it also controls leafminers, and the product label was expanded to include control of white apple leafhopper east of the Rockies in 1999. Control of spider mites and western grape-leaf skeletonizer on grapes are recent additions to the federal label, with registration in California expected in time for 2000 use season. Agri-Mek has also become the standard for pear psylla control.

•Thiamethoxam (Actara™, Platinum™). This new systemic insecticide controls a wide spectrum of sucking and chewing insects such as plum curculio, aphids, whitefly, leafhoppers, leafminers, mealybug, pear psylla, thrips, Colorado potato beetle, and others. Thiamethoxam interferes with the insect's nervous system through contact and ingestion. It is a very flexible product, formulated in various ways to accommodate many application methods, including seed, soil and foliar treatments, at low use rates. Thiamethoxam exhibits excellent crop safety and should be ideal for IPM programs. Thiamethoxam products are not currently available for sale or use in the United States. Registrations on pome fruit, cole crops, cucurbits, leafy and fruiting vegetable crops, potatoes, tobacco and cotton are expected in mid-2000.

New Plant Activator

•Actigard™. This unique compound controls several plant diseases by stimulating a plant's natural defense mechanism. It is not classified as a fungicide, but as a plant activator. In nature, this defense mechanism can be stimulated when a plant is infected by a fungus, bacterium, or virus. When Actigard is applied preventively or in the early stages of disease development, it uniformly triggers the plant's defense mechanism. Actigard protects against many foliar diseases, such as bacterial speck and spot in tomatoes, downy mildew of lettuce, white rust and downy mildew of spinach, and blue mold of tobacco. It is not currently available for sale or use in the United States. Actigard is a reduced risk product expected to receive registration in spring 2000 in lettuce, spinach, tomatoes, and tobacco.

Sprayer Offers Greater Productivity

ATLANTA, Ga.—"The new Willmar® Eagle® 8500 sprayer has been designed from the ground up to improve profitability for custom applicators with new features that increase application productivity," said Mark Perger, Willmar general marketing manager.

"Simply stated, the new 8500 sprayer offers improvements in size, speed, comfort, and smoothness of operation that applicators have been asking for," he said.

Why zinc phosphate?
In metal roofing and siding paint holds better on heat formed zinc phosphate. Room temperature formed it's brittle. Also zinc phosphate is better than chromate because paint scrapes and peels off easier from chromate and rusts easier. Almost the entire industry uses chromate or room temperature formed zinc phosphate. If other manufacturers would use heat formed zinc phosphates as Everlast II then the industry would have less trouble with failed paint and premature rusting.

Rural Economy

Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

Dale Kennedy, Catalpa Farm, Middletown, PA

"The Millcreek Bedding Spreader saves me untold hours of back breaking manual labor installing fresh sawdust in my 125 stalls. Now I use less material and get a more controlled application. The Bedding Spreader is a good equipment value because I use it so often."

Now you can apply fresh wood shavings, sawdust or sand for free stall bedding 75% faster - with just one man. No more shovel, no more backache.

The Millcreek Bedding Spreader puts fresh bedding exactly where you want it. There's nothing like it for fast, efficient and cost-effective application of fresh bedding material in free stall barns.

For example, Scott Coblenz, Deer Spring Farm, Maryland, milks 280 head and uses sand to help improve herd health. It used to take 2 men almost 2 days to install fresh bedding. Now, with the Millcreek Bedding Spreader, one man does the job in hours.

Call today for free information.

Millcreek Bedding Spreaders come in four sizes, from 5.4 to 13.5 cu. yd. capacity

World's Fairs, Expositions Topic Of New UD Exhibit

NEWARK, Del. — "Progress Made Visible: American World's Fairs and Expositions" is the theme of a new exhibit that will be on display from Feb. 8 to June 8 in the Special Collections Exhibition Gallery of the Morris Library at the University of Delaware. The library is located on South College Avenue, Newark.

Looking backward from the millennium, no events seem to typify the United States from the Civil War to World War I more than the World's Fairs, said Iris Snyder, associate librarian in the special collections department, who is curating the exhibit.

The fairs commemorated historic events ranging from the Declaration of Independence, the voyages of Columbus, and the Louisiana Purchase — and also celebrated America's industrial growth and economic power. As America moved from an insular developing nation to a player on the world stage, the fairs mirrored the nation's growing confidence.

The overriding theme of all the fairs and expositions was progress and the belief that life would inevitably get better as a result of hard work, technological advancement, and healthy living. The fairs benefited not only the national image, but also the states and cities which sponsored them, the manufacturers that displayed their products, and the people from all social classes who were alternately amused, instructed, and diverted by them. Both the strengths and weaknesses of the United States of the period can be seen in the fairs from creativity and ingenuity to racism and unrestrained consumerism.

Long-term benefits of the fairs were wide ranging. Cities gained buildings, parks, and planned urban centers as well as new residents and investments. The exhibitions showed off the industrial and cultural strengths of the nation and developed markets for manufactured goods. World's Fairs became important showcases for the latest in fine arts, architecture, and design. Fairs sponsored international congresses on religion, science, labor and other topics of contemporary concern that brought world-renowned authorities together. The world was opened up to the millions of visitors, who would never have the opportunity to travel abroad, but were able to experience the food, dress, music, and customs of many cultures.

The fairs also reflected their times in more negative ways when organizers made white supremacy and imperialism an integral part of an exposition design. Emphasis on "progress" included exhibits emphasizing "racial" advance by labeling non-western European-based culture as primitive. People of color in so-called anthropologic exhibits were objectified and treated as spectacle. Accomplishments by African Americans and women were marginalized.

The Special Collections Department of the University of Delaware Library holds a wide variety of primary source materials relating to the world's fairs and expositions held in the United States between 1876 and 1939. Guidebooks, official reports, photographic view books, trade catalogs, and children's books, as well as ephemeral material such as invitations, souvenirs, trade cards, and photographs, are represented.

The exhibition will be organized by individual fair or exposition including the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition (1876), the World's Columbian Exposition (1893), the Pan-American Exposition (1901), the Louisiana Purchase Exposition (1901), the Sesqui-Centennial (1926), and the New York World's Fair (1939).

For more information or library hours, call (302) 831-BOOK or check the library web page at <http://www.lib.udel.edu>.

USDA Checkoff Task Force Uses Recommendation

AMES, Iowa — National Farmers Organization (NFO) is pleased that a key USDA task force is advocating adoption of one of the organization's main recommendations for the national checkoff program.

USDA's Research and Promotion Task Force, charged with studying the nation's farm commodity research and promotion activities, recently released its report to the Secretary of Agriculture. Contained within that report are several recommendations based on NFO resolutions, namely that checkoff programs be subject to a five-year sunset provision.

"National Farmers has always held the belief that commodity check off programs should not only be authorized by producer referendum, but that a referendum be held every 5 years on the continuation of the program," said Gene Paul, NFO president. "The organization is very pleased that the task force recognized the need for democratic approach to checkoff implementation."

Earlier this spring, National Farmers submitted a written statement to the interagency task force studying the program, asking that ag producer interests be taken into consideration.

The task force report noted that 40 percent of the programs currently operating without sunset provisions (beef, dairy, pork and potatoes) have already faced or are currently facing petition drives to force a vote on whether to retain the checkoff.

Conference To Examine Ways To Manage Nutrients, Pathogens

ITHACA, N.Y. — Agricultural nonpoint source pollution can impact the water quality of rivers, lakes, estuaries, groundwater, and wetlands.

Owners and managers of animal feeding operations (AFOs), in which animals are raised in confined situations, must observe practices based on current knowledge and regulatory requirements in order to minimize nonpoint source pollution.

On March 28-30, in Camp Hill, Pa., a conference entitled "Managing Nutrients and Pathogens from Animal Agriculture" will provide a forum on recent research, field experience, and government response concerning animal agriculture and the environment in eastern North America.

The target audience for the conference includes nutrient management consultants, cooperative extension educators, producers advisers, and soil and water conservation district (SWCD) staff. The conference will also be of interest to agribusinesses; watershed managers; local, state, and federal policymakers; environmental professionals; owners and managers of AFOs; and community officials.

The objective of the conference is to provide an overview of issues related to the interaction of nutrients, pathogens, the environment, and animal agriculture. Presentations will discuss nutrients and water quality; forces of change in animal agriculture; EPA and NRCS goals in nutrient management; waterborne pathogens; dairy, poultry, and swine manure management practices; feed management to reduce excess nutrients; the fate of land-applied nutrients and pathogens; the phosphorus index; land application; site management; and nutrient management plans.

Conference speakers include more than 30 experts from the land grant universities, the Agricultural Research Service (ARS), the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS), the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and the private sector.

The published conference proceedings, which will be provided to all conference participants, will be useful in developing comprehensive nutrient management plans and public policy. The USDA Water Quality Working Group provided seed money to initiate conference planning and develop the conference proceedings.

The conference will begin on the afternoon of March 28, and conclude after the morning

It's Like Having 'God As Your Co-Author'

GENEVA, N.Y. — Imagine rewriting the Bible "with God as your co-author."

That's how Michael Villani, Cornell University professor of entomology, characterized writing the second edition of "Turfgrass Insects of the United States and Canada" with original author Haruo Tashiro, retired professor of entomology at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva.

Patricia J. Vittum, associate professor of entomology at the University of Massachusetts, also co-authored the recently released book.

The first edition, which was released in 1987 and written solely by Tashiro, is considered the "bible" of the turfgrass industry and is the manual of choice among golf courses from Pebble Beach to Silver Creek. In 1992, because of advances in such areas as Integrated Pest Management (IPM), Tashiro decided it was time to write a new edition.

The second edition took three years to complete. Tashiro, who has been retired for over 15 years, thought the book would benefit from having co-authors because he was not comfortable with more current topics like IPM, which was just an emerging field when he retired. Tashiro enlisted Villani, his successor in the department, and his last graduate student, Vittum, to co-author the new edition.

In addition to updating the original chapters, the second edition includes new or extensively rewritten chapters on areas such as: IPM, the principles of biological control, sampling techniques, setting thresholds, and chemical control strategies. The new edition also features more recent images featuring the life stages of nearly all turfgrass pests found in the United States and Canada.

According to Villani, "The book was a true collaboration. Vittum was the first author because she tended to tackle those distasteful tasks that go with the glory and responsibility of first authorship."

Before the rewrite started, the three authors sent copies of the original chapters to turf entomologists around the country with the request that they take a hard and critical look at the chapter(s) and offer feedback and suggestions.

Vittum and Villani then split up the original chapters and worked on improving readability, adding new citations, and reorganization.

Villani's responsibilities were the soil insect chapters. He credits graduate student Paul Robbins with having major input on several of the scarab chapters. New life-sized line drawings by Robert Jarecke, who worked in Villani's lab, were added to each chapter. Species distribution maps were drawn by Station graphic artist Elaine Gotham. Vittum and Villani then added new chapters on IPM, chemical and biological control tactics. Villani credits graduate student Jennifer Grant with major input on the biocontrol chapter.

After each chapter was rewritten, Tashiro read and made suggestions. All three authors then reviewed the entire text.

The 422-page edition features 576 photographs on 72 color plates. Many of the photos were taken by Tashiro himself who set up a photo lab in the basement of his home with the aid of Station photographers Joe Ogradnick and Rob Way. Although Tashiro admits he is "very proud of the entire book," he is "most pleased" with the new plates. Ogradnick took those photographs that Tashiro did not.

The new edition appears to be as well received as the original.

"There is no book available that offers such comprehensive, yet in-depth coverage of turfgrass insects and associated pests," said Dr. Rick L. Brandenburg, professor of entomology at North Carolina State University. Many others join Brandenburg in offering wholehearted praise of the book and believe it will continue to be regarded with respect by the turf community.

When asked about plans for a third edition, Tashiro gave the nod to Villani who said maybe he'll tackle that one in another 10 years.

New Seed Council Forms

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Seedsmen Association (PSA) fulfilled its desire to merge with Penn Ag Industries Association Jan. 17 when an agreement was made between the two organizations.

By dissolving their current association, the PSA, an unincorporated association, will benefit immensely through its affiliation with the larger Penn Ag, a Pennsylvania nonprofit corporation. All current members of the PSA are recognized as members of Penn Ag. A new council, the Seed Council of Penn Ag, will be created for these members to address their issues and special needs.

The new Seed Council will operate independently on issues of interest to its group and will have the full strength and support of the entire Penn Ag organization when needed. In return, Penn Ag will gain all of the PSA business assets and bring Penn Ag one step closer to its goal of consolidating the agribusiness community.

This is the third merger for Penn Ag in the last three years. Both the Agronomic Products Council and Poultry Council were formed for the benefit of uniting the agribusiness community.

Conference To Examine

session on March 30. On the evening of March 28, a poster session and tabletop exhibit will be held, and an evening discussion session is planned for March 29. There is no additional charge for a university or government professional who registers for the conference to present a poster paper. Companies that sponsor the conference are also welcome to participate in the poster session. A post-conference workshop on developing comprehensive nutrient management plans will be offered with sufficient audience interest.

Companies interested in sponsoring the conference should contact NRAES. Sponsorship will include display space during the poster session, one conference registration, a link to the company web site from the conference web site, recognition in a news release, and recognition in the published conference proceedings. Maximum benefits result from commitment by Jan. 21. The cost of sponsorship is $1,000.

The conference registration fee will be set in late December after confirmation of Federal funding. The fee will include break refreshments, one lunch, a copy of the proceedings, admission to the reception/poster session, and a pass to the conference.

A conference brochure including the complete program, a registration form, and other information will be available in January. Conference information can also be found on the NRAES web site, <WWW.NRAES.ORG>. When the registration fee has been set, registrations will be accepted by mail or—for those who wish to pay by credit card—by Internet, telephone, or fax. For registration information or to receive copies of the free conference brochure, contact NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701; phone (607) 255-7654; fax (607) 254-8770; e-mail NRAES@CORNELL.EDU.

A block of rooms has been reserved for participants at a special conference rate at the Radisson Penn Harris Hotel and Convention Center. To reserve a room, call the Radisson Penn Harris Hotel at (717) 763-7117 or (800) 333-3333. Reserve by March 6 and mention "Managing Nutrients" to receive the conference rate of $68, plus 6 percent tax, for a single, double, triple, or quad.
